FIRST SCHOOL THAT FLOATS.

Established on Cruiser Des Moines Off Hawaiian Coast.

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The first of Secretary Daniels' "floating schools" for academic instruction of the enlisted men of the navy has been established on the cruiser Des Moines, now patrolling Dominican waters. Thirty seven men have enrolled to date and are receiving instruction in elementary branches, including English, history, arithmetic and geography.

One hour's instruction is given daily and regular attendance is required from those volunteering to take the course.

BERNHARDT A DANDY.
The "Divine Sarah" Opens a Hotel for Tourists and Remits Rooms at Reasonable Rates.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Sarah Bernhardt is an innkeeper in thought here a somewhat startling new role, even for this versatile tragedienne.

A short time ago a wealthy manufacturer built a large country house at St. Germain, just in the rear of Sarah's famous fortress. For some reason the occupant of the chateau became tired of his house, and threw it on the market almost immediately after building it.

Mrs. Bernhardt has bought and moved into it, and, not having any further use for her fortress, she lets the rooms there to tourists at $1.25 a night. The accommodations are said to be extremely comfortable. At this price there is expected a rush of foreign tourists and travelers next summer to the new "Hotel Bernhardt."

DIVORCED FROM BROKAW.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—An interlocutory divorce was granted by the supreme court today in favor of Mary Blair Brokaw and against W. Gould Brokaw, the millionaire. Mrs. Brokaw will get $15,000 a year alimony.

The Brokaws were separated two years ago. A previous attempt to obtain a divorce failed.

Slavery Prices in the Philippines Quoted to Washington.

Seething Charges Made by Dean Worcester Investigated by the Insular Auditor and Have Been Sustained, According to Report Made Public by the Secretary of War.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Secretary Garrison had before him today a Philippine slavery report by W. H. Phipps, auditor of the islands, practically settling the startling charges of slave trading.

It cites details of many cases of boys and girls sold into slavery at prices ranging from $60 to $100 and that heads of savage families sell their daughters and regard the practice as a right.

"I have no hesitancy in saying that I think the charges of Secretary Worcester that slavery exists in the Philippines are sustained," says Phipps.

The Philippines report is based on investigation conducted under the direction of the Philippine auditor by district auditors. It was accompanied by a list of sixty-seven persons held as slaves, some being held outright and some under the so-called debt system, the failure of which is shown by the fact that some of the slaves so held are more than 40 years old and have been held by their present owners since birth.

The almost universal report made to me by each person who has been asked to investigate," wrote Mr. Phipps, "was that slavery in some form existed in the Philippines."

HAT THAT NEEDS A SHAVE BRYAN'S LATEST "BUY."

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 20.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Mr. Bryan has abandoned the broad-brimmed hat of the style he has worn for years in his trips about the country, in favor of the latest thing in a "Pussy Cat" velour—the kind that needs a shave—which was first brought to this country from the same place in Europe where yodeling is most in vogue.

It is not believed, however, that Bryan ever has noticed the kind of

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 20.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The customs collector at Juarez is a son-in-law of Minister Urrutia of Mexico. To personal friends today he made the statement that the United States and Mexico had reached an agreement and the conditions would be carried out following the elections. The conditions were that the Mexican government should cede the Bay of Magdalena and relinquish all claim to the Chamela zone, now in dispute, and surrender control of the Tehuantepec railroad to the United States.

In return, the United States is to assume all claims against Mexico by United States citizens and others.

PUT HEAD TAX ON AMERICANS.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
MEXICO CITY, Sept. 20.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The previous relations between the United States and the American authorities were considerably strained today as the result of an announcement that an almost prohibitive tax of $5 gold would be imposed on all persons entering and leaving territory under control of the Carrancistas.

Col. Miller of the Fourteenth Cavalry protested against this action and made a demand that American troops be permitted to enter the territory.

PLEDGES OF THE GENERALS TO BLOCK HOME RULE.

(BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.)
LONDON, Sept. 20.—Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Irish unionists, is now engaged in reviewing the volunteers at various places in Antrim. Speaking at a demonstration at Antrim Castle today, he pointed to Gen. Sir George Richardson, who holds the post of "general officer commanding the volunteers," and said:

"We have our general on the platform. The radical press is expressing some emotion because of this great general among us. I tell the gentlemen that we have more. We have the pledges of some of the great generals in the army that they will come over and help us keep the old flag flying when the time arrives."

BRAVE ELEVATOR BOY SAVES SCORES FROM FIRE.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
ST. PAUL (Minn.), Sept. 20.—To the coolness and bravery of a youthful passenger elevator operator, whose name is not known to officials tonight, because of the fact that he was working at night, scores of employees of the Louis F. Dow Company, an office fixture manufacturing concern, owe their lives. Repeatedly the boy shot his car to the upper floor of the structure without a moment's hesitation and brought girls and men to safety from the flames, which late today fatally injured two men and caused a loss of $13,000 to the company and building.

In the basement, where the fire started, were James J. Connelly, 40, engineer, and Michael J. Connelly, 37, a finisher. Both of them, according to physicians tonight, will die as the result of burns. Before POINTS OUT GUAYAQUIL AS MENACE TO WORLD.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
BOSTON (Mass.), Sept. 20.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) That the city of Guayaquil, the chief port of Ecuador, is a menace to the health of the world, and that it will become a question of international importance with the opening of the Panama Canal, is a statement made by Dr. Richard H. Strong, head of the Harvard Medical School expedition to Peru.

"Yellow fever is life in Guayaquil," says Dr. Strong, "new cases occurring daily in the city and near-by regions. No adequate sanitary measures are taken, and the city is one of the dirtiest in the world, equalling the worst parts of Calcutta and parts of the Jewish quarter of Cairo. The health authorities are active, but do not do the few cases early enough to prevent spread of the infection. But the plague of a comparatively mild type prevails also. Typhoid fever is rampant, the infection being spread apparently by flies, which feed upon filth, of which the streets are the chief receptacle, and transfer the germs to food. Fear of an influx of Americans and their domination of

CROWD PRAYS FOR WORKMAN.

HANGING BY A THREAD HIS LIFE IS SAVED.
Five Thousand Onlookers Join in Supplication for Him and He Is Rescued While His Companion Is Terribly Battered by Fall from Tall Smokestack.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 20.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Five thousand persons in a street uttered prayers for the safety of Edward Nanny, a workman on a smokestack 125 feet high at a standard oil plant in Whiting, as he hung suspended today by a mere thread. Nanny himself supplicated loudly when he was not begging the crowd below to save him. The prayers were answered as Nanny, after remaining in his perilous position for an hour, was rescued.

Nanny and John Horak were working on a scaffold at the top of the stack when one of it broke loose. Both men held on for a time as a crowd below gathered. Then Horak dropped to the ground. Nanny hung on for a while longer, then slipped. He jumped caught on a projecting ledge where a few strands of the cloth held him. Rescuers scaled the stack inside an attempted to throw ropes to him, but for over half an hour their efforts were futile because of the high wind. Finally he caught a rope and was pulled to safety. Horak was terribly battered by his fall, but is expected to live.

CONSTANTINE IN PARIS.

King of Greece Incongruous in Fear of Attack Because of His Praise of the Germans.

(BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.)
PARIS, Sept. 20.—King Constantine of Greece, walked about the town today in civilian clothing and attended by only one aide. The police had taken precautions to guard him owing to fears that his remarks recently in Berlin concerning German military science might cause unpleasant incidents. The king, however, was not molested. A crowd stared at him when he sat down to lunch in a public restaurant.

COMMONWEALTH LECTURE ENGAGEMENTS FOR SEASON.
But Declares He Will Go on the Platform Whenever He Pleases. Admits His Chautauque Income This Year Exceeds Seven Thousand Dollars.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Commenting on the termination of his lecture engagements, Secretary Bryan today announced that he would continue to lecture as long as he remained Secretary of State, whenever he felt there was proper occasion and a desire to do so.

Mr. Bryan issued this statement: "This evening is the last of the Chautauque lectures for this season. The total income from Chautauque lectures this year is a little over $7000. The net receipts after taking out the necessary expenses are something over $4500. The number of whole days which have been used for the lectures is, according to my recollection, seven. The remainder of the lectures have been delivered at places near enough to this city to leave in the afternoon, sometimes as late as 10 o'clock. I would not assume that the public was interested in these details were it not for the fact that the representatives of a few newspapers have regarded it as a matter of great importance."

When Mr. Bryan was asked if he would lecture any more during his connection with the State Department, he replied: "I expect to lecture whenever I deem it desirable or necessary to do so and have not in the least altered the plans which were made at the time I assumed the duties of the office. The criticism that has been directed against my lecturing is no more bitter than the criticism I have undergone at other times and for other things during my connection with politics."

"A part of this criticism is malicious, a part of it is partisan and a part of it is based upon misstatement. That which is malicious will answer itself, that which is partisan will be accepted as such, that which

EXODUS OF MORMONS.

Copeland, Arriving in Douglas, Kansas, Wilson's Order to "Ban" for Fear of the Americans.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
DOUGLAS (Kan.), Sept. 20.—An exodus of Mormons from Colonia Moravia, Oregan, and Colonia San Juan, Mex., has begun.

H. Copeland arrived here today with his family and reported that other Mormon families, including those of W. B. and Arthur W. Moore, were on the way to the border. He said he believed many others would follow as soon as they could arrange their affairs for the return to the United States.

Copeland said President Wilson's message was responsible for the Mormon exodus, adding, however, that conditions in the colonies in Sonora were anything but satisfactory.

Venustiano Carranza, Constitutional leader, to pass through the United States on the way from Nogales, Sonora, to Ciudad Fortino, Diaz to reject his command. Stockton Woman, Whose Husband Is in Jail on Non-Support Charge, Tries to Take Her Life.

STOCKTON, Sept. 20.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Despondent because her husband had failed to support her, Mrs. Cyrus Dodson, whose husband is in jail awaiting trial of a charge of failure to provide, attempted to end her life last night by taking poison. She drank only a small dose, however, and was able to leave the Emergency Hospital this morning.

Mrs. Dodson was visiting with friends yesterday and several times during the afternoon threatened to take her life. Last evening she ran out to the rear porch and managed to gulp down a small quantity before the bottle could be taken from her. She was rushed to the hospital.

ON TRIAL FOR BRIBERY.

New Mexico Legislator Accused of Taking Five Hundred Dollars to Vote for Senator.

ALBUQUERQUE, Sept. 20.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Judge Maurice E. Blanton, 32, (N. M.), Sept. 20.—J. P. Lucero, Representative in the first State Legislature, is on trial in the District Court here today charged with the solicitation of a $500 bribe in connection with the election of Senator Fall to the United States Senate last session. Four legislators, Julian Trujillo, Manuel Condeza, Louie R. Montoya, and the defendant were indicted. They were tried and acquitted by the Assembly, but later indicted by the grand jury.

A WIRELESS WONDER.

It Works Only at Night and Presents a Waving Picture of Everything Within Gun Range.

AT A P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] YALE, (Cal.), Sept. 20.—A local inventor has evolved a wireless photographing instrument which works only at night and reflects on a mirror, it is said, a moving picture of everything within a radius of several miles. He has been invited by Secretary of the Navy Daniels to take the machine to Washington for inspection by experts of the Navy Department.

The instrument receives its impressions from a web of wires attached to a tall mast. For this reason it is adaptable to ships, making impossible the invention of a night night-vision, accidents due to fog and running aground of icebergs. It would be valuable, too, it is claimed, for army use in the movements of an enemy at night or to make the swiftest of a test was made recently of the instrument here. The night was dark, but observers say they saw reflected on the machine's mirror a picture of the district for a distance of two miles; saw the shipping in the vicinity of the Mare Island navy yard, railway trains passing up and down the valley, and persons on the streets of the city.

The inventor formerly was a wireless expert in the government employ.

BETRAYED BY LOVE LETTER.

Mistake Sent From Los Angeles Results in Capture of Alleged Leader of Opium Smuggling Ring.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 20.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) George Moore, alias "Snake Moore," by the Federal authorities said to be the leader of the opium smuggling ring, whose members have been partially made up of customs guards and inspectors, was captured today in El Paso by a special treasury agent, and will be returned to San Francisco at once.

With his arrest, Special Agent Tidwell, Supervisor Wardell and Collector Davis have rounded up, they believe, every member of the band except one, and the other, it is believed, will be under arrest within the next twenty-four hours.

Moore was captured through a love letter sent to Lillian Lorraine, a young woman who sings for the entertainment of upstate cafe entertainers. The letter, sent from Los Angeles, declared that Moore was on his way to El Paso and that he expected to return here within a week. The authorities intercepted it, noted the contents and promptly wired to El Paso, where Moore was arrested. He left here about the same time that Thomas Murphy, alias Andrews, and Chung Kow, a Chinese, were arrested.

Survivor Wardell said the authorities believe Moore was rearrested and leader of the ring and that he is an ex-convict, having once served an eighteen-month term in Leavenworth prison for opium smuggling.

Town of Ukiah Isolated by Flames. A Man Is Burned to Death at Philo.

AT A P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] SANTA ROSA, Sept. 20.—Ukiah, Mendocino county is practically surrounded by fire some today, and the town is isolated. Fighting the flames, there is no apprehension of immediate danger.

Frank Dubley was burned to death at Philo last night when his residence in which the postoffice was located, was destroyed.

Laurel Hill, a summer resort across the Lake county line, was saved from the forest fires raging in that vicinity this week, only after a stubborn fight. The hotel roof was ablaze several times.

BOAT DRILLS FOR OPIUM.

"No Finds" Is the Report of the Officers on the Liner Mongolia in San Francisco.

(BY A P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) SEATTLE, Sept. 20.—Customs officers who started searching the Pacific Mail liner Mongolia for opium upon her arrival from the Orient today, received a bland welcome from the officers and up to late tonight had not unearthed any of the drug.

It was the fifth search undertaken for the purpose. Three times on the way across there were boat drills, and each time, according to passengers, portions of the ship were hauled to see if any opium was tucked away. Day before yesterday the crew was segregated most of the afternoon, and the officers held fixed posts and the captain, in a suit of overalls, accompanied by one assistant, made his final examination.

No "finds" resulted. Hence the Mongolia's sister ship, the Manchuria, which arrived here twenty days ago, carried much contraband opium.

Pays Money Into Court to a San Jose Couple Injured by Auto of the Financier's Daughter.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.) SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—Suit for $10,000 damages against the Misses Ethel and Helen Crocker was dismissed in San Mateo county today, after William H. Crocker, a San Francisco banker, and father of the girls, had made a financial settlement with Mr. and Mrs. John Platiel of San Jose. The Platiels claimed they were permanently injured when the Crocker automobile, driven by Miss Ethel, crashed into their buggy on the county road, in September, 1915.

The settlement, according to the Platiel's attorney, runs well into four figures.

"HOLD STEADY" CRIES WILSON.

President Fears His Lines Are Getting Weak.

Afraid Also Next Congress Will Be Republican.

Force Every Day of the Special Session.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 20.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Democratic leaders of both houses of Congress are worrying over President Wilson's continuous session until December to pass the Glass-Steagall currency bill. So far, the President has made little headway with his cracks of the party whip to get them into line. Secretary Joseph T. Tumulty also will be back at his desk, and this is expected to strengthen the President's hands.

President Wilson has repeatedly declared that there must be no adjournment of the special session until the currency bill is passed. He has insisted that the bill be passed by the end of the session, and that the Democratic members of both houses of Congress should not be allowed to adjourn until the bill is passed.

In the Senate the danger of permitting the bill to be adjourned for a couple of months with nothing to do but adjourn, was emphasized yesterday by Senator Sherman's denunciation of the administration's policy and Secretary Bryan's Chicago tour. With a semi-weekly session and no business to transact, would be put into such statements the administration would have to reply. Then a full-fledged scrap would be on. With the Republicans in such a mood, the Democrats would have to maintain a majority in both houses at all times to forestall surprise and to keep the bill from being adjourned.

As a result, it will be up to President Wilson during the next week, while the bill is being adjourned, to force prompt action on the currency bill. If he succeeds, the two houses will be adjourned for a couple of weeks, but if he fails, there is a great likelihood that a sine die adjournment, or at least a recess until the middle of November, will be taken.

It has transpired that one of President Wilson's chief arguments to the Democrats for keeping them here in continuous session is his fear that the Republicans will recapture control of the House. The Democrats are not boasting of this possibility, but it is none the less effective.

Arlington Square Values

In step with the population, with the school enrollment, with the growth of the Great Republic, with the building activities, and with the bank clearances, all values are marching on.

PRICES ADVANCE OCTOBER FIRST

The path of progress is studded with the milestones of increasing values all the way. The 1775 lots of today will go higher October 1st. They will still be the lowest-priced good residential property in that entire district, even after the advance.

Only 5 minutes' ride, you will find similar residence lots commanding $2000, $2500 and even $3000 each, so rapidly is the city spreading and values mounting.

With the Manual Arts High School, two new Grammar Schools, Exposition Park, new lines, the best city improvements, and the most desirable portion of the beautiful southwest to enhance its value, it must be evident to any thinking person that the best time to buy the $2000 lot is when it can be purchased on easy terms for $775.

These Prices Never Will Return at Arlington Square. Only $775 and Upward.

$25 Cash, $10 a Month.

Gibraltar's Growing Wealth Is Joined to California's Greatness

LOS ANGELES TO BE NEW YORK OF PACIFIC, SAYS R. R. EXPERT

Southern Railway Man Ascribes Wonderful Back Country City's Chief Asset

If you want to grow your dollar join it to Southern California Power.

"Los Angeles is in its infancy. It will be the New York of the Pacific Coast. Any man with eyes can see that by spending a few days looking about Southern California there is a wonderful back country about this city, a truly wonderful back country which leaves the headland growth of the city, adds to the growth of world resources via the Panama canal, increasing manufacturing." "This is the statement of R. W. Miller, assistant to the president of the Southern Railway, which, with its five miles of track, links together the most important cities in the south and east."

The eyes of the world are turned to California now as never before. The dollar of the investor and the landowner is being directed to the Golden State as never before. The greatest colonization on record is being carried here by railroads from the East and millions more will arrive through the Panama Canal. There is nothing greater as an investment or as income-producer than the California Acre.

It is the duty of every money-maker and every investor and every seeker for land to hearken to these facts—to investigate the conditions and to grow with California.

Gibraltar not only develops and sells the land but grows the trees to plant in the greatest nurseries of their kind in the world. Gibraltar will sell you the planted orchard-home for 10 per cent. down and $5 per acre each month. These Gibraltar acres have established a record of sales to those who wish proven fruit land. The irrigating system furnishes abundant water, and 700 acres have already been planted to trees.

Make Your Feet Happy

THE FINE NEW LITH IN Tired, Aching Feet—Make Them Glad With Balm Foot Comfort

COMPANY IS FORMED TO HARNESS WHITEWATER.

BANNING, Sept. 20.—The White-water River will be set at work generating electricity. This is the cheering news from the Consolidated Power Company, of which H. Edwin Moore of Los Angeles is general manager.

The company has selected diverting the White-water River from the desert, bringing the stream in conduits six miles to a point near Banning, where several sections of head will be installed. During the past few days a power auxiliary has been formed to take care of the power part of the work and today the announcement is made by details for the company that two and possibly three power houses will be installed at points a few miles north of Banning in the canyon.

Plans for the power house at Banning have been advanced for some time, and all is in readiness for the work. The company expects that little could be done in the past few days, but the work is now under way and the company expects to have the power house completed by the end of the month.

It is noteworthy that a part of the conduit carrying the stream down the desert will be a tunnel. The tunnel is to be a concrete structure, and the company expects to have it completed by the end of the month. GOES TO HEAR WITNESS.

Lives Inognito Here to Avoid

Permits Him Out.

Philip Chalmers, alias Philip Carlin, was at the Pottinger Sanatorium,

Monrovia, was summoned yesterday

by Deputy United States Marshal

Dingle to appear as a witness against

Henry Stephens, who is to be tried for the murder of the Union Station at Kansas City about five years ago.

When Stephens grabbed the registered pouch he jumped on to an outbound Missouri Pacific Railway train, and managed to hold on to the rear platform with the money where Chalmers, who was, it is alleged,

"beating his way" was found. At the train passed an electric light,

Chalmers saw what Stephens had and became frightened, but Stephens would not let him swing off the train and give the alarm.

Later on Stephens was captured and convicted in Kansas City and senenced to thirty years. Chalmers was the principal witness and was paid

$1000 by the officials of the Missouri

Pacific Railroad Company.

Stephens served but a short time when he was pardoned by Gov. Major and is to be again tried on indictments that were not involved in the former hearing, and the testimony of Chalmers is needed to secure a second conviction.

The prominence of Chalmers in the former action brought down upon him the ire of the pair of Stephens and it is claimed that on account of the fact that Stephens was convicted almost on Chalmers' testimony alone, he was not upon and severely beaten.

A request was forwarded to the Postoffice Department yesterday

by Postoffice Inspector Ranger to allow the witness to be taken East in the custody of a deputy United States Marshal.

Chalmers has been living quietly

under an assumed name at Monrovia trying to forget his part in the transaction and keeping out of the limelight, as with the pardon of Stephens he had reason to fear for his life.

THEY EXPECT
NEW MESSIAH.

Theosophists Bear Temple for a Leader.

Hope to Cradle a Superior Race Out Here.

Eugenics a Factor in the Calculations.

Los Angeles has just been designated as the birthplace of an expected new and superior race. It is prophesied, also, that a great teacher will make his appearance here. The American section of the Theosophical Society purposes to cradle the new race to appear within a few years," Holland continued, "and by his life and teaching not only vivify the old religions of the world, but also send forth a new note, emphasizing a new religious characteristic, just as the great teachers did in ancient times."

Just as Hermes emphasized the attainment of knowledge; Zoroaster the attainment of purity; Orpheus, of beauty and harmony; Christ, of self-sacrifice; so the new teacher, in our opinion, will emphasize the brotherhood of humanity.

"We expect the next great teacher to make his appearance just as those of the past did, and no doubt he will be rejected by the orthodox churches as Christ was."

"We do not expect the next Messiah to drop from the sky in a cloud of radiant glory and bring about the end of the world."

THREE CANDIDATES.
"Some of the great teachers in the past manifested themselves to the world in the body of one of their devoted disciples. This was true of Christ who occupied the body of Jesus, taken at the time of his baptism. It is probable that some one in this new world will be found sufficiently advanced to provide the coming great teacher with a body for his manifestation."

Theosophists the world over are speculating now as to who will be the medium for the expected Messiah.

It is understood that there are three likely candidates, one of them Krishnamurti Aloya of India, a remarkable youth who has written a pre-famous book which attracted the attention of students of reincarnation.

Another candidate is supposed to be an Englishman whose identity has not been revealed; the third is a resident of Chicago.

The three candidates, according to the Theosophists, are undergoing a system of training for the purification of their physical, emotional and mental beings. Holland said that the great leader would appear early in his career at Krotona to possibly complete his training there.

JOYRIDE WITH EACH TICKET.

Southern Pacific Calls the Auto to Its Aid.

Fire in Rio Tunnel Cause of the Innovation.

Tucson Gets Recognition as Open Gateway.

Every traveler on the Southern Pacific's coast line is now a "joy rider." The reason is that to halt the two frayed segments of track on either side of the fire-swept Santa Margarita tunnel, north of San Luis Obispo, a fleet of five swift automobiles has been placed in service to transfer passengers. In this way the Coast service is maintained.

Through the Southern Pacific management decided Thursday to transfer all possible through Los Angeles and San Francisco business to the valley line, it was seen from the start that some semblance of a through service must be maintained on the coast line for the benefit of those wishing to go to stations either just north or south of the tunnel. After deliberation, Superintendent Ahern of San Francisco hit on the automobile idea.

Now a person can take the Coast out of here at 7 o'clock in the morning, go to San Luis Obispo, transfer to a swift automobile and be hauled ten miles through fine scenery to Santa Margarita, where a train will be waiting to take them north. A similar service is furnished as a matter of course from the north.

How long the "joy-riding" scheme will be kept in effect is a matter of conjecture, as news received yesterday at the Southern Pacific office here were that the tunnel had not yet been unscrewed to ascertain whether or not the fire has burned out.

BIG THINGS LATER.

ROADS OPEN THE DOOR.

Optional routing of freight either over the Southern Pacific or the El Paso and Southern Pacific between Tucson and El Paso will become effective October 1, according to circulars issued yesterday by the participating carriers.

In other words, Southern California gets another outlet to the East, Tucson becomes a freight gateway of moment, the El Paso and Southern Pacific becomes a railroad power to be reckoned with in the Southwest, and the southern border country of Arizona and New Mexico should receive a material industrial impetus.

To use a trite saying, "All good things come at once." Next Thursday the Southern Pacific and El Paso and Southern Pacific will put in effect an optional passenger routing arrangement between Tucson and El Paso. This will be followed, it is understood here, by the transference of the Golden State Limited trains from the Southern Pacific to the El Paso and Southern Pacific tracks between the Arizona and Texas city.

These concessions to the El Paso and Southern Pacific by the Southern Pacific came as a result of many conferences between officials of the two roads. But to top them with the optional, or the "shipper shall decide," arrangement for the routing of freight, meaning the transfer of the Rock Island's Gold Ball Dispatch to the El Paso and Southern Pacific for handling between Tucson and El Paso, is surprising.

Needless to say, the Southern Pacific was the court of last resort in the matter. To maintain service in between the Rock Island and El Paso and Southern Pacific rents from the Southern Pacific. As renters they can be ousted at any time the Southern Pacific sees fit. But each road apparently welcomes the competition.

Under the new optional routing, Southern California and in fact the entire Southwest get another traffic artery to the East, a line over which freight can be handled without transfer at Tucson. Before, freight loaded there for rough collection of either the Rock Island or the El Paso and Southern Pacific went straight Southwestern Pacific to El Paso, where it was turned over to the El Paso and Southern Pacific for further handling. By this arrangement the El Paso and Southern Pacific line from El Paso west was made "direct" for miles, for the handling of business destined only to points east of Tucson.

LOOKING FOR FREIGHT.

WINCHELL SEES HARBOR.

As a part of his investigation of tonnage possibilities in the Southwest, W. L. Winchell, director of traffic of the Union Pacific system, made a minute inspection yesterday of the harbor and of the Salt Lake's terminals. He was accompanied by Vice-President of the Union Pacific Traffic Manager Scott of the Union Pacific. General Manager Nutt of the Salt Lake acted as guide.

Leaving at 10 o'clock, the party was in a special car to the harbor, where the entire terminal layout of the Salt Lake was gone over. Then the party went to the docks along the water front were given a thorough scrutiny.

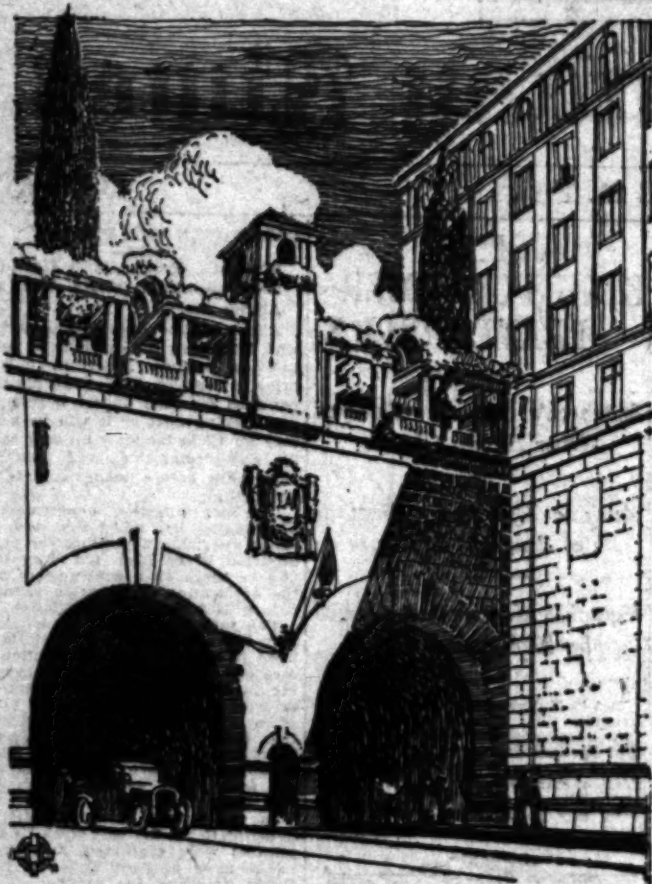

At 1 o'clock the party went aboard a motor boat for a water-level view of the inner and outer harbor. One stop was made. This was to view the General Pine Line Company's lay-out.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the Winchell party, including Munroe, Port, Mrs. Winchell, Mrs. Munroe, and Miss C. W. Munroe, left on the Yale for San Diego. They will return some time today over the Santa Fe and will remain here until Wednesday or Thursday.

"Winchell as a railroad official is new to the West," said General Traffic Manager Scott of the Salt Lake, yesterday. "As president of the Pine system, his traffic training was confined more or less to the South and Middle West. Naturally, as director of traffic of the Union Pacific system with its affiliated lines into the far Southwest and Northwest, he wishes to get acquainted with conditions right on the ground. That's the sole object of his visit, though naturally he has the further object of encouraging us to get him more freight tons and more passengers."

Suggested portal for a new tunnel.

This drawing is by Harold Harwood Hewitt as a design for the east entrance to the proposed Second-street bore. Hewitt, now associated with Oliver P. Dennis in this city, was formerly a member of the firm of Bischoff & Hewitt, which, at the request of Mayor Speer of Denver, drew in 1903 the original designs for the Denver Civic Center. Hewitt says the additional cost of making tunnel approaches dignified and artistic would be small. The sketch was made merely to show what could be done and illustrates the possibilities of dignified treatment. It provides for a municipal elevator in the center. There is a pergola effect on either side of the tower and the whole is Spanish. The tunnel is to begin at Olive street. John W. Mitchell, president of the Municipal Art Commission, says: "I am much impressed with the merit of Mr. Hewitt's sketch. The scheme for an elevator is admirable and the whole entrance which he suggests is ornate and dignified."

GAME FISH ABOUND IN GREAT AQUEDUCT LAKE.

HAIRWE reservoir, the aqueduct's greatest storage basin, now contains more than 40,000 acre feet of water, nearly 16,000,000,000 gallons, or about two-thirds its full capacity.

Up in a mountain pass, three-quarters of a mile above sea level, Chief Engineer Mulholland and his assistants have created a magnificent artificial lake, whose crystal waters are a surface area of 2100 acres, confined between two great dams seven and a half miles apart. Its capacity is sufficient to run the full flow of the aqueduct for 80 days.

That this beautiful sheet of water will prove a paradise for hunters and fishermen is the opinion of officials here and others who have studied the condition. It is right in the line of migration for countless seafowl, who are attracted by the water. The birds are attracted by the water, the birds are attracted by the water, the birds are attracted by the water.

It is the latter that are expected to include Hairwe lake on their itinerary as a regular stopping place. The flight is invariably arrested when the birds see Owens lake but that body of water repels them almost as soon as they are attracted by it, because of its alkaline properties. It is reasonably certain that the big aqueduct basin will draw them all to the surface of its clear waters and that millions of seafowl of all kinds will be found there every year.

Not long ago when the lower reaches of the canal that flows into the Hairwe were drained, 400 pounds of fish were killed in a small area. This was only a mile or so above the inlet to the reservoir and if the fish were so near the lake as that it may be expected that they have already passed into its main body long since.

There are Rainbow, Loch Leven and Golden trout there in great numbers and of good size. Catfish and carp are numerous as well as other varieties of small fish. Conditions are favorable for propagation and the trout especially are expected to multiply rapidly. The water is clear and cold and at that altitude trout are at their best.

The percolation of water through the mountain side observed by Mulholland and Mayor Rice on their recent trip, is not a leak in the dam and by no means a new discovery at this time. Mulholland says that it is a matter of common consequence and one that can be readily overcome at any time. The percolation is far from the dam and is not affecting any of the construction work. It returns again to the aqueduct into the by-pass below, so that the water is lost.

Mulholland explains that the rift in the mountain through which the water is percolating was caused when a long ledge of mountain, its apex past was shaken loose from the lower mountain side. In the break is a stratum of porous lava rock. He says the condition was noted before work on the dam was begun and has been kept under observation since. When the water has percolated through ledge of mountain, he aims to determine exactly the extent and trend of the rift, the seepage will be stopped.

gines and San Fernando Valley, Pasadena, Ontario, Menloville, and all the district north of the city, and will enable residents of those communities to avoid the present detour.

The reconstructed bore will be tiled and lighted like the Hill-street tunnel. Creosoted wood blocks will be used for paving to secure smoothness and noiselessness. The entire tunnel will be trussed and otherwise reconstructed and will be lined throughout with white enamel. It will be waterproofed and will have an adequate drainage system.

The Los Angeles Railway Company is expected to build a parallel tunnel for street car traffic, to be placed through that part of the hill will be afforded for pedestrians, vehicles and railway traffic.

FIRST AND SECOND. Plans are about completed for the Second-street tunnel, although there still remains considerable detail to be handled by the City Engineer's office. This is true of all the tunnel plans and the engineers have found themselves confronted with a tremendous amount of work which requires much time to dispose of.

Eighty per cent of the property owners affected have agreed to change the grade on Hill street to secure an easy grade between First and Third streets. Lowering Hill street will make it a much better thoroughfare than at present in the opinion of the property owners.

The Second-street tunnel will be a double bore with the grade commencing at Broadway. The east portal will be east of the east line of Hill street and its floor will be nearly on a level with the present grade at Broadway. The First-street tunnel will be 1400 feet long, the longest bore to be undertaken through the hill. The portal will be east of Hill street and the grade changed to correspond with First and Broadway. This tunnel may be a wide, single bore with compartments, although the proposition to make a double bore has not been entirely abandoned.

Both the east and west tunnels will be provided with air shafts, elevators and attractive portals. Both will be begun in about six months and will probably be ready for use some time next year.

Inform Yourself. For more information on the proposed Second-street tunnel, see the Los Angeles Associated. This book will help you to know the city better.

Special Court.

The Board of Supervisors can legally carry out such a project without recourse to the Legislature. Superior Court Judge can take turns in sitting in this court, proposed by Capt. Fredericks, or still better, some judges with broad ideals and a love for humanity can be chosen to fill the position.

Capt. Fredericks admits it is a subject that will require thought and planning. But he believes the county officers can work out a satisfactory plan to relieve the crowded condition of the courts and the crowded condition of the jails.

SAVE TIME AND MONEY. The District Attorney was in Judge Willis's court Friday when the judge passed upon twenty-three cases and heard two trials. It then occurred to Capt. Fredericks that much time can be saved by having confessed criminals disposed of in some other department.

The courtroom can be located on the third floor of the Hall of Justice and if necessary an addition can be built for the superior housing of men who are worthy of help.

"I believe we must have a separate department exclusively for the purpose of hearing and passing on adult probation matters," said Capt. Fredericks yesterday.

"First, that while important matters being heard, the jury and crowd of witnesses and prosecuting officers will not be compelled to lose the time at the expense of the county, but will be able to get the necessary of better methods for handling this important branch of criminal jurisprudence."

"When a man is given probation he takes with him the same weakness which led to his fall. He doesn't accumulate them in a season and so they will not be eradicated any more rapidly than they were accumulated. I believe under our present laws a proper institution for handling adult probationers can be established by the Board of Supervisors."

THE PLAN IN DETAIL. Capt. Fredericks suggests first that a judge be selected whose sole occupation will be to pass on probation and allied matters.

Second, that a physician be secured, free from sentimental and mandarin ideas, a scientific man who will try to diagnose each case.

Third, that a detention ward be established into which probationers should first go. This should be in charge of a physical instructor who will develop the men, physically in clean, healthy habits.

Out of his many years of experience as a criminal prosecutor, Capt. Fredericks is convinced that some such institution will save the taxpayers tens of thousands of dollars each year and also redeem many men who are not of criminal tendency but who fall through weakness or temptation.

Capt. Fredericks would extend the system to women also, of course, separate wards and instructors for them. He does not suggest any petting of persons who have sinned, but rather a wholesome stimulation of their latent possibilities through the avenues of good health and lack of incentive to crime.

The best the jailer can do is to keep the jail clean and prevent escapes," he said. "The handling of men fit for probation is not a work for a jailer but is a scientific study, and probationers so kept until they become mentally and physically healthy can then be given another step into the world. The whole system seems to me very simple, very plain, practically and in reality, from monetary standpoint, profitable."

HANDLING PROBATIONERS. "When I say these men and women probationers should be treated scientifically I mean there should be no flowers, no mandarin shobbering over their condition, no sympathizing or condoning their wrong."

"I am not prepared to say that this idea could be carried out in an institution containing a great number, say over a thousand, but a county could very readily handle the undertaking. Under the present arrangement, when we give a man probation, he is required to say that he has a job, and, I assume, truthfully; but how long can he keep it, what was the cause of his present trouble and how long will he avoid that cause?"

"All these are questions and circumstances which in many, many instances bring the probationer back to us again for the severe lesson of the penitentiary. Under the system I have suggested the man who shall be tried with his first liberty must be either a physician or must be a man of large, broad common sense and humanity assisted by some one well skilled in the methods of ascertaining the probationer's mental and physical condition."

"I do not believe the State can reach the moral condition of its wards in any better way than except through training and building their mental and physical condition. The experience of fifteen years in this office impels me to that conclusion and leaves in my mind no room for doubt."

THAT PROPOSED STATION. City Club Demands That Council Delay Action Until Provision Is Made for Eliminating Crossings.

At the meeting of the City Club yesterday noon in the Union League Club, the subject for discussion was the elimination of grade crossings on the railroads, but the discussion became a general condemnation of the Southern Pacific Railroad and its plans for the proposed new station at the foot of Fifth street.

The speaker of the club were Messrs. McRay, Mohler and Binkins, members of the Board of Public Utilities.

President McRay continued himself to a discussion of the plans of the Pacific Electric Railway for carrying its cars on an elevated structure from the Main-street terminal to San Pedro street, concerning which no action was taken by the club.

C. K. Mohler, engineer of the Public Utilities Board, and Martin Binkins, the other member, devoted themselves mainly to telling what the city would not get in case it was agreed to permit the Southern Pacific Railroad to proceed with the building of the proposed station, and the discussion closed with the adoption of a resolution calling upon the City Council to defer any action whatever until such time as the railroad company presents a plan making adequate provision for the ultimate elimination of all grade crossings.

2. E. Gibson, Jr., seconding the motion to adopt the resolution, declared that the city can force the company to build an adequate station, making such provisions as are required for the comfort and safety of the people.

FITTING ON THE BRAKES. Electric and Auto Men Take Steps to Avoid Accidents by Collision of Vehicles.

With the slogan, "Put the muzzle on recklessness," officials of the Pacific Electric street railway yesterday representatives of the Automobile Club of Southern California and the Motor Truck Club of California and avoided a plan whereby accidents and near accidents between electric cars and automobiles will be checked from three angles.

The meeting grew out of the demand of President McRay of the Board of Public Utilities for a plan to eliminate all grade crossings, actual or threatened, between cars and vehicles. The committee reports it was necessary to make a study of the situation and to make a plan to be made which would be an absolute check on the situation.

This arrangement made the use of the electric car a more comfortable and safe mode of travel. It was also a check on the situation and to make a plan to be made which would be an absolute check on the situation.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

A representative of the Panama Navigation & Commercial Company, visited the Harbor Commission yesterday to discuss possibilities for accommodations at the municipal wharves for the line of vessels this company will establish between Panama and Los Angeles as soon as the canal is opened.

The City Council will sit as a committee of the whole after its regular session Wednesday to consider the scheme for a general annexation to the city of territory that is to be served by the Los Angeles aqueduct.

The City Council yesterday instructed the City Attorney to prepare the notice of sale of franchises for the Pacific Electric's proposed elevated tracks back of the Sixth-street depot, to extend to San Pedro street.

NEW LINE FOR COAST TRAFFIC.

WILL RYAN BETWEEN PANAMA AND LOS ANGELES.

Prepared to Begin Operations When Canal Is Opened for Public Use and Seeks Accommodations at San Pedro Docks—Three Large Vessels Ready for Business.

A new steamship company is to establish a line of traffic between Panama and the Los Angeles harbor as soon as the Panama Canal is open for public business. George W. Gray, representative of the Panama Navigation and Commercial Company, with headquarters at No. 716 Los Angeles Investment Company building, visited the Harbor Commission yesterday, seeking information as to wharf facilities at the municipal wharves yesterday, and in company with members of the commission will visit the harbor this week to discuss plans for accommodating the new line of traffic.

The company now has three vessels ready for service as soon as the canal is opened. Each of these vessels has a carrying capacity of 1500 tons dead weight and accommodations for 100 passengers.

It proposes to ply between all coast ports from the canal to the Los Angeles harbor and develop trade possibilities now lying dormant. It is carrying out the plan to serve by the water of the Los Angeles aqueduct.

The Council is in favor of taking steps to get this subject ready for definite action, business of its members oppose the Mayor's plan of a large committee of thirty-nine to formulate a programme. The Mayor states that he is not particularly desirous of having this plan adopted, but that he brought it forth as a tentative measure, so as to start proceedings of some kind, and the Council is in favor of a movement whereby the districts proposed to be annexed shall hold separate elections, so that the sentiment of each district may be clearly ascertained before the city is put to the expense of an election on the general question of annexation.

Will Prepare Franchise.
The City Council yesterday instructed the City Attorney to prepare the notice of sale for franchises permitting the Pacific Electric to construct and operate elevated tracks from back of the Sixth-street depot to a connection with the city line being constructed on San Pedro street.

The instructions to the City Attorney are to include in the provisions of the notice of sale, the recommendations of the Council, the Public Utilities Board and the City Engineer. The draft will then be taken up by the Council for its final consideration.

Will Ask for Permit.
The Harbor Commission had before it yesterday for consideration the plan for the proposed extension of Crescent avenue at the harbor, to reach the city's submerged 144-acre tract that is to be reclaimed when the Point is raised. This roadway will cross the government reservation along the water front, a distance of 1125 feet, and it will be necessary to acquire a permit from the War Department for the use of this land for the temporary trackway proposed, and later on, when a permanent roadway is desired, it is probable an act of Congress will be required.

Catalina Street Paving.
The Board of Public Works yesterday awarded to the Barber Asphalt Company the contract for paving Catalina street, from Sixth to San Marine streets. The price is $21,349.49, and $280 is estimated as the inspection fee. The board allowed the contractor 110 days to complete the work.

approved the recommendation of the City Engineer that advertisement be made for bids for the renewing of the water works of the First-street viaduct, across the river. The estimated cost is $8000. The board has asked the Council for authority to proceed.

Will Transfer Library.

During the building of the Los Angeles aqueduct, the Aqueduct Bureau has accumulated an extensive and highly valuable library of freight, passenger and express tariffs. The need for this library in the aqueduct work is practically at an end, and the Board of Public Works yesterday decided to transfer it to the City Auditor.

Are Tourists to Blame?

Mayor Ross yesterday received from T. J. Stewart a letter in which complaint is made that children of permanent residents are allowed only a half-day's schooling, that Stewart's own son is now beginning his third year of schooling under such conditions, while there are people who are only tourists sojourning in Los Angeles who benefit by having a full day's school session for their children. The Mayor will refer the letter to the Board of Education.

Would Limit to One Year.

The Park Commission yesterday appealed to the City Council to take steps that will put the commission in a position next year to directly handle the amusement and refreshment concessions in the city parks. The commission asks that when concessions expire they be rechartered for a term of only one year, so that when next year's appropriations are made the Park Commission may have the opportunity of taking over this entire business. The board believes that it would be enabled to secure an income of from $10,000 to $15,000 from these sources and give the public better service than it is now receiving.

DELAYS ONE DAY AND LOSES SUIT.

SUPERVISOR'S ACTION DROPPED BY COURT'S ORDER.

Third Time Defeated in Church Row in Which Plaintiff Sought to Collect Damages for Alleged Slanders—Bucco Victim Gets Part of His Money Back.

Superior Norton's $12,000 slander suit against J. J. Norton, Jr., was dismissed yesterday because he was one day too late in filing his second amended complaint. Attorneys Williams and Fowler asked Judge Morrison to dismiss the action and to allow $100 attorney's fees provided by the statute. Judge Morrison signed the order. Norton's only recourse now is to ask for a reopening of the case in default.

Norton wanted damages from Johnson for the latter's alleged remarks during a discussion of church affairs, May 3, last. Both are trustees of the First Church. Norton alleged that while the congregation was present, Johnson maliciously and with intent to cause it to be believed that he had diverted funds to his own use, had stated, "Mr. Norton, on the pretense of trying out the automobile, used it in the campaign for supervisor last fall, and the church had to pay for the gasoline he used."

When the matter came up on demurrer to the complaint, the demurrer was sustained. Norton was granted leave to file an amended complaint. He did this within the ten days allowed. Johnson demurred, and it was likewise sustained by the court and ten days granted for filing a second amended complaint. The days elapsed Thursday and on the eleventh day Norton's amended complaint was filed, alas, too late.

GETS HIS MONEY.

BANK ORDERED TO CASH.
On the ground that the certificate of deposit, calling for $5000, which G. P. Fries had deposited with the First National Bank and later turned over, it is alleged, to the Rial, head of the bunco trust, was lost, and that Fries had in good faith offered to indemnify the bank if it were presented, Judge Wood yesterday gave judgment for Fries.

Fries brought suit against the bank, alleging that he had been induced to turn over to Rial an evidence that he was able to raise $5000, on the understanding that the certificate was to be immediately returned, and later on, when a permanent roadway is desired, it is probable an act of Congress will be required.

CHURCH PLAINTIFF.

LEAVE TO FILE.

The property at the northeast corner of Sixth and Hill streets owned by the Church of the Holy Trinity, according to a petition filed in the Supreme Court by the church yesterday asking leave to sell. The church claims that the property was bought by the congregation and the Sunday-school having rapidly increased, and so as to accommodate the members, it is necessary to have a large church building.

Authority to secure larger quarters was given at the last quarterly conference, the trustees of the church securing a site at Eighth and Hope streets. This lot is 200 feet on Hope street and 150 on Eighth street. The price is $124,000. The lot at Sixth and Hill streets is 119 feet on Hill and 155 feet on Sixth street. Several offers to buy the property have been received by the trustees.

STOCK TO BE CANCELLED.

In the suit of N. E. and R. S. Holmes against Lawrence Holmes and the American Red Cross, the American Red Cross, which was on trial for a week in Judge Shink's court involving the transfer of $60,000 shares of stock to Lawrence Holmes and the ownership of a patent record, was decided yesterday in a verbal opinion.

Judge Shink held that the stock had been issued to Lawrence Holmes by the direction of the company contrary to the corporation act and that it must be returned and cancelled. He declared Lawrence Holmes the owner of the patent record. Lawrence Holmes claimed that the directors of the company issued him the stock in settlement of a claim for $15,000, being royalties from the sale of the patent record. In order to recover this amount, it will be necessary for him to bring suit.

THE BEAUTIFUL PHOTOGRAPHED reproduction of the famous Spanish dancer, Lola Montes, is on sale at the end of the block. Buy one of these at once and at low price.

Furniture of a King's favorite.

Now resting in an especially-constructed house in Hollywood. It was by Lola Montes, the famous Spanish dancer who ruined King Ludwig of Bavaria and caused him to lose his throne. The set is of wood with mother of pearl ornaments, and the background a beautiful tapestry.

King Charming.

The skill of a connoisseur in antiques. They are arranged about the large room in exactly the same manner in which they were used by Lola Montes when she awaited the arrival of her king, Ludwig I.

At opposite ends of the room are two tall ebony mirrors, full length and over ten feet high. These splendid glass cases gave the superb exotic her opportunity to pose and preen while awaiting the King's coming. Along the sides of the big mirrors run double rows of flowers set forth in mother-of-pearl, roses and birds' heads are worked out in pearl, and when the light strikes the center of the roses they bluish a deep red, giving a life-like appearance to the inlay. Paralleling to this pearl, run scrolls of dainty copper and hammered brass, all making an ensemble barbaric in splendor. The black ebony gleaming in its polished sheen, and the rose and pink pearl with the burnished brass and copper, all form an allurement that appeals irresistibly. In one corner and the room beneath a gorgeous tapestry is an old-fashioned sofa of the same materials. The tapestry covering the back and seat is of old rose in color with a heavy raised figure that although eighty years old seems to be good for twice as long again. Here again the pearl scrolls, mostly beneath a milky milk and the scroll of copper and brass shows bravely against the polished ebony.

There are chairs and a couch of allurement with a table intact just as it was used by Ludwig and Lola Montes in their games of chance. At the foot of the room is a more expensive checker board or chess board mounted with unusual elaborateness. But the set top opens up and reveals a secret spring and the four leaves are moved backward making a table twice as large and arranged for cards and dice.

SKIRTS IN OLD ROOM.

The entire room is set in old rose coloring with subdued light all of which seems to enhance the splendor of the ancient furniture and adds just that something to remind the intruder—for that is what you seem—that Lola Montes, regarded by many as one of the most beautiful women in Europe during her time, had lived in this room.

To Dr. Voss this room is somewhat of a shrine. To a friend or an intimate visitor he allows the room until he has shown all his other numerous antiques, and then, after the guest is in the proper state of mind, he starts toward these wide double doors which have seemed to be eternally hiding from the profane eye the room in which Lola Montes lived.

Dr. Voss opens them, steps within, and then awaits the appreciation of the furnishings. You instinctively sense the presence of an exotic woman. The coloring shows it. The room and wine of the tapestry stand out almost livid against the amber but glistening black of the ebony. The rose-and-milk tinge of the mother-of-pearl cry it out loud and when Dr. Voss states reverently:

"This was the trying place of Lola Montes and Ludwig, King of Bavaria," your memory flashes back to the portraits of the riotous beauty of the famed Spaniard.

And then if you are sufficiently impressed you will hear the story from Dr. Voss. Here it is.

"In 1840 Ludwig I was King of Bavaria. In all Europe there was but one great dancer and beauty. Her name was Lola Montes. She was beautiful beyond compare. She had danced in all the capitals except Munich. She came to Munich and was to dance at the Royal Theater. The director of the Royal Theater refused at the last moment to give permission for her to appear. Trouble had been stirred up by other caprices by Lola Montes and the director of the Royal Theater would not permit her to appear.

To forbid Lola Montes was to condemn her in her desire. She forced her way into the ante-chamber of the palace of King Ludwig determined to secure permission from him. He danced in the Royal Theater. The attendants would not permit her to go farther and a loud altercation ensued. The hot-blooded Spaniard beauty berated the attendants until the noise reached the ears of the King. He asked the cause and was told that a Spanish dancer was making an audience and had been detained. King Ludwig ordered her brought into his presence. Proudly totem pole designs in low relief with shell inserts. It is said to be the first use of this style of interior decoration ever made on a large scale. The wall panels are entirely occupied by mural paintings by Dixon. As this room is for entertainment purposes solely, the decorations will be of higher character than elsewhere in the house, expressing gaiety and joviality. When completed, which will be in about a year more, this will be one of the most notable decorative schemes in America.

ANOUAKIA

There will be six large panels covering the entire wall surface except that occupied by an enormous stone fireplace made of granite blocks. The floor of both rooms is green tile and the color scheme is largely in blue and green with intensive points of black. All the lighting is by the indirect method. The adjoining kitchenette with its electric and gas appliances is a model of convenience.

THE LADY OF THE PEACOCKS.

Decorations and furnishings on the first floor show a quiet taste in keeping with the general scheme. From the most unusual the uniquely beautiful decorations of this part of the house are the peacock decorations in the den and the peacock designs cut into the plate glass of the principal entrance doors.

The cut glass lighting fixtures in the dining-room were imported from France and cut in France. The glass on the sideboard is of the same design.

Most of the lighting fixtures were designed by Tiffany. In the living-room there are of bronze with a peacock design with tails of iridescent glass. The general motif of interior finish is the oak leaf. It appears in the plastered cornices and elsewhere in every room.

All the furnishings have been selected by Mrs. McClaughrey. In every purchase her object has been to make a home, not a museum. No room is furnished according to any period, but according to the individual taste of the owner.

Mrs. McClaughrey has spent months in acquiring a superb collection of oriental rugs, but has refused to purchase those whose chief claim to worth was because they were unusual or in the nature of curiosities. No rug was accepted except for its intrinsic worth and because it harmonized with its surroundings.

Most of the furniture was designed by Shaw of Boston. That in the den is of oak. The breakfast-room is entirely furnished with California redwood tables and chairs. The living-room is furnished in mahogany. The library has a tile floor and leather furnishings throughout, with mahogany cases and bronze lighting fixtures.

Peacock designs in the den and elsewhere indicate that the scheme is a favorite with Mrs. McClaughrey, who has frequently been styled "The Lady of the Peacock."

MUSIC STUDIO LATER.

The stables, garage, reservoir, entrance, bath-house and plunge are nearly completed and are of the same general style as the house. Later a music studio, large enough to accommodate a pipe organ is to be built among the oaks quite a distance from the house.

It will require a year to fully carry out the scheme for beautifying the grounds. Beyond the bath-house will be laid out a Japanese garden and houses for Japanese servants, which has been completed in fifty feet long, twenty feet wide and at one end is eight feet deep.

Each room the famous Arabian stables, that once won a $10,000 prize and reckoned as one of the most valuable horses in the world, has luxurious quarters in the great stable. Two of his collars, thoroughbred like himself, are to be broken to saddle for Mrs. McClaughrey's children.

The collection of birds constitutes one of the most interesting features of the grounds. Fifteen great aviaries have been built and as many more are to be erected soon. There are parrots of every conceivable kind and color. Scores of them are permitted to go free among the trees. Some of them talk Spanish only. Some speak English and a few are accomplished linguists in several tongues.

Two giant macaws are permitted to follow their own devices about the grounds, talking volubly when the mood seizes them and crying mallevoently their last vigorous brothers.

All the birds are named and most of them will come when called by one of the keepers.

There are peacocks, birds of paradise, love birds, macaws. Not even Mrs. McClaughrey knows how many there are but in addition to the domestic fowl there are probably thousands. Deer, hares, monkeys and squirrels have common access.

Beyond the aviaries Mrs. McClaughrey proposes to build a model dairy and quarters for rare fowl to be secured later.

It is a magnificently beautiful home, feasible only in Southern California, whose advantages of climate and mountain background have done much to tempt the owner's good taste and unlimited resources.

Heir to Great Coffee Plantation Falls in Love with Flamingo Strangers and Wakes Up in Receiving Hospital Desperately Ill and Misses Fat Roll of Bills.

His famous ancestor, Ponce de Leon, came here for youth, but Victor, aged 78, and heir to leagues of coffee land in Guatemala, came for maturity and experience.

He found it in Los Angeles during the past three days when he was adopted by three Mexicans, who treated him, drank with him, and finally dragged him, after introducing him to three senoritas on Ver non way. The tolls he paid for the merrymaking were $1000 according to his ledger, and an attack of delirium in which he nearly burned himself to death in his South Flower-street apartment.

With his guardian, Felix Maldonado, Victor de Leon had come to Los Angeles on his way to San Francisco, where he planned to embark for Guatemala to return to the ancestral holdings, the famous Santa Buena Vista rancho, at San Francisco Zapotitan, which has been a possession of the family for generations.

On the same day, several months ago, five members of the family had been sent forth into the world in charge of guardians to learn the ways of other peoples. Victor was chosen to make the North American trip, coming to New York and en-

AN INFERNAL MACHINE.

The Clock That Stopped on the Stroke of Twelve.

DURING the summer of 1813 there might have been observed loitering about the Tuilleries a spare, shabbily dressed man, past the prime of life, restless and watchful in his movements, but wearing, in spite of his humble garb, an air of faded respectability and character. He was a decayed Spanish noble, Don Monsen Chavarri by name, and his thing noticeable about him was his persistency in endeavoring to obtain an audience of the Emperor. Foiled in every attempt, either through accident or the suspicions of the attendants, he invariably received his rebuffs in silence, and withdrew—merely to renew his importunities. Repeated today, tomorrow found him at his post. He haunted the palace like a specter. Even the gamins soon grew familiar with the story of his hopeless quest, and he began in time to be treated with that sort of pitiful consideration which is usually accorded to those of unsound mind. At length, however, there came a day when, in the Rue de Rivoli, as the Emperor was returning from a review, a pistol shot rang out from the corner of the court, and the bullet whistling through the line of out-riders, buried itself in a panel of the imperial carriage. The police at once charged the crowd, and among the number arrested was our friend the Spaniard. At the trial, there being no evidence against him, he was acquitted, but warned instantly to leave Paris. Acting upon the warning, he disappeared, and all traces of him were lost.

It was some two years after this occurrence that there began to circulate among the guardians of the capital, reports of a marvelous clock to be seen in that city, which illustrated, by means of automatic figures, an episode in the life of the Emperor. It was designed for presentation to that personage. It was said to be the work of a famous artisan, who had lately arrived incognito, from some distant land, and who, in supposed fit of eccentricity, had taken lodgings in a humble and obscure quarter of the Faubourg St. Antoine. The reports of the wonderful, almost supernatural performances of this piece of mechanism and the mystery surrounding its owner and inventor gave rise for a short time and in certain circles to no small amount of gossip. This gradually died away, and the artisan and his clock were alike forgotten, when an event occurred which restored them to more than their former prominence, and entitled them to a place in history.

Fouche, one morning, in his office, received a letter from his secret agent in Spain which contained information of a most startling and important character. Its perusal threw him into a state of unusual excitement, and its result was an immediate descent of the police upon the mysterious shop in the Faubourg St. Antoine with orders to arrest the artisan and his daughter, secure the premises, and, carefully guard all the stock, tools, implements, and other contents from being touched or displaced till further investigation. The party detailed for the duty having departed, Fouche re-entered himself, and waited with ill-concealed anxiety the arrival of the prisoners. After a considerable lapse of time, the officer charged with the arrest appeared empty-handed. His report was soon made. The lady in the case, the daughter, had that morning at an early hour left her house in the Faubourg, accompanied by a young lad, who bore a heavy black portmanteau. The two had been traced to the gates of Montmartre, beyond which point no clue to their movements could be obtained. The old workman himself had left the shop an hour before the visit of the police, locking doors and barring windows behind him. He bore in his arms what was apparently, according to the apple-wood man opposite, a great square box, covered with a dark, it seemed heavy, material. He sat down awhile on his doorstep when a caiche came by, into which he put himself, and was driven off at a rapid pace. The caiche was brown; the driver was in green livery. A gentleman following him and another reflecting a moment, when his face suddenly whitened. Without a word he dashed down the stairway to the street and sprang into a passing hack.

"To the Tuilleries!" he shouted. "Double double speed!" Arrived at the palace, he hastily alighted and demanded to be at once shown into the presence of the Emperor. Napoleon was in the room in which he received private visitors, and thither the ushers instantly conducted Fouche, who encountered some delay in the anteroom impatiently pushed open the folding doors, and entered unannounced. The Emperor greeted the intrusion at first with a frown of displeasure, but instantly recognizing his visitor, resumed his customary expression, and nodded affably. Fouche, who in the situation of a single glance, besides Napoleon there were five persons in the room. Four of these were officials of the palace, chamberlains and armed valets, who frequently attended when he gave audience, to prevent attempts at private assassination. The fifth was a man habited in a common workman's blouse, standing apart from the others in a respectful attitude and holding in his hand a workman's cap. Fouche that this person was some other than the old familiar goblin of the Tuilleries—Don Monsen Chavarri, formerly gray, was dyed to a glossy black, his face was disfigured by a mustache and pointed beard, and his once smooth hands were roughened as though by exposure and toil. At his side stood a large lacquer table, supporting an object on which Fouche's attention was immediately fixed. This was seen at once to be the exact model of the clock, in the highest style of art, and serving evidently as the case for a clock, which lay above perfect imitations of those which barred the principal entrance to Notre Dame, were two dials, on one of which the hours and minutes were visible while on the other a long, sweeping hand described the seconds. Fouche, by a natural instinct, noticed the time and the dial. It lacked a few minutes of noon.

Immediately thereafter he started with nervous alarm as the clock gave a warning note, a though about a strike; then, suddenly there was a clank of complicated machinery and the great doors folded slowly inward, exposing the interior of the clock. The interior was decorated as though for some great feast. Banners and hangings of the richest material and most costly workmanship flattered from the ceiling and flanked the niches in the walls. The aisles were carpeted with tapestry and velvet and the pillars were clustered with garlands of living flowers. On the opposite side of the great nave two thrones were erected, the one being approached by a flight of velvet-carpeted steps, and the other by a broad, carpeted stairway. The thrones were adorned with golden bees. And now the great hall in the tower struck one with a heavy, reverberating clang; there was a swell of triumphal music, and mimic procession, clad in gorgeous robes, moved into view from one of the hidden aisles. At the head of the cortege walked an old man dressed in a triple crown, who, as the bell tolled for the second time, ascended the steps of the smaller throne. It was the coronation performed by the Emperor.

Napoleon looked on with unusual interest. "Confess, Fouche," said he, "that this is as admirable in its way as the police system in Paris. There is one mistake, however," he continued; "the great doors of Notre Dame were not open at that occasion. The thoroughfare just against them, and the only entrance was through the transverse hall."

a sickly hue, and his limbs trembled. "This is a most unusual proceeding," said the Emperor, in amazement. "Who is this lady, and what is the nature of her crime?"

Fouche, bent double with suspense, still keeping his eyes riveted upon the tawny, changing face, spoke almost impromptu: "You have trusted me before, sire. I beseech you, trust me now! Ask me no questions, but write the pardon."

There was an instant of silence, broken only by the ticking and low music of the clock. The second hand was measuring off the sixtieth minute with rapid, steady sweep. Almost unconsciously, Fouche drew a chair from his pocket, cocked it up, observed it, and with a face as that of a corpse, was raising it to fire, with a cry to the Emperor on his lips, when Chavarri, whose main seemed torn by contending emotions, bent suddenly over his mechanism, touched a spring concealed in the rear of the tower, and instantly the whole complicated machinery of the clock stopped with a sudden metallic clang. The music ceased, the automaton ceased, the clock stood still, each in his place, the mimic Emperor, stretching out his hand for the crown of the Caesars, and the great bell in the tower poised midway in its swing for the twelfth and final stroke.

"Parbleu!" muttered Fouche, pocketing the pistol, and wiping the perspiration from his brow. "Allow me, monsieur," he added, drawing to the table, "to inspect this wonderful specimen of art."

"It is so delicate, monsieur," said Chavarri, hurriedly, still keeping his finger on the secret spring, and waving Fouche off with his unengaged hand. "Here is the pardon," said the Emperor, affixing his signature to a paper as he spoke. "I hold you, Fouche, responsible for results. Well, what next?"

"Our worthy friend's clock is broken, it appears," said Fouche, awkwardly. "Broken, sire," said the Spaniard, "and with it the plans of a lifetime. And," he added, casting down his eyes and speaking in a querulous, broken voice, "since when one's hopes are broken one cares but little where he goes! I wish a passport to leave France."

Fouche took up the cue immediately. "I have to request, sire," said he, "that you also make out a full and free pardon for the accomplices of the Lady Isidore Chavarri—her father, Don Monsen Chavarri of Seville. The Emperor smiled bitterly. His active mind had already comprehended the situation, and without a word, either of expostulation or inquiry, he seized a pen and wrote. Then having finished and signed the double pardon, he advanced with it in his hand.

"Our friend here," said he, "doubtless knows where these persons are to be found, and to him I confide these papers."

The old man, still jealously keeping his hand on the spring of the mechanism, read aloud: "A full pardon to Don Monsen and Dona Isidore Chavarri to leave France immediately without hindrance or question."

"Add," said he, "and alive."

one who have been cherishing the notion that T. Dore Bell has not only passed from the political side lines, but that he has been properly and effectively laid out and his tombstone ordered. Everybody knows that Bell has been put through a rough course of "dredging" the last few years, and while it is no doubt true that as far as he is individually concerned, he cannot get much of anything that is worth saving, he is not without influence. If you do you will be kidding yourself unnecessarily. Even the Wilson administration has seen fit to recognize the Napa statement. No matter what may be said to the contrary, Bell alone gets the credit for the appointment of Ed E. Leake to the county to be special agent of the Treasury Department at San Francisco. Leake got his appointment primarily because he was known to be an intimate friend of Bell. The fact that he is personally well liked simply made the appointment that much easier. It is an interesting story, this appointment of Leake, who by the way is a brother of Sam Leake, who a few years ago was managing editor of the San Francisco Chronicle. There was nothing in sight considered good enough to offer Bell personally, but it was deemed right and fitting that some appointment be made that would be recognized unequivocally as a Bell favor. The first man suggested for this consideration was R. H. De Witt of Yreka, Shasta county, and later chairman of the Democratic State Committee. But De Witt wouldn't do. He had made himself personally objectionable by his individual method of campaigning for proposed, but he, too, was in ill favor at Washington because of his pugnacity in working on the Missouri end of the Presidential primary election. Then it fell that Ed Leake was suggested, and the suggestion met with approval. The unstinted endorsement of Secretary Lane of the Interior Department was Leake's at the mere mention of his name. So the people who think that T. Dore Bell isn't still within reaching distance, have another guess coming.

FINANCIALS TO ATTEND EASTERN CONVENTION.

Commission Representing Fourteen Thousand Banks to Report on Currency Matters, Consideration of Which Will Be Feature of Bankers' Meeting.

A number of prominent local bankers are expected to attend the thirtieth annual convention of the American Bankers Association, to be held at Boston, October 1 to 14. Stoddard Jess, president of the Clearinghouse Association and vice-president of the First National Bank; J. P. Sartori, president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank, and member of the Currency Commission; J. E. Fishburn, president of the National Bank of California; and John Perrin, member of the Currency Commission, will be among those to leave the city September 30 for the convention, according to present plans. It is probable that the party will also include J. C. Drake, president of the Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank; and F. E. Newton, vice-president of the Farmers and Merchants' National Bank.

Attorney and Oil Promoter Blandly Exposes Poverty in Court, but Holds Out Dim Hope that His Fortunes May Mend Some Time in the Future.

Edmund Burke, a well-known lawyer and oil promoter, was in Justice Young's court yesterday on supplementary proceedings brought by Robert J. Hood, representing a dentist who claims $73.50 is due him from Burke.

Similar proceedings were taken two months ago, but Burke frankly confessed he was unable to pay this particular bill. The second quins of his financial condition was undertaken because of alleged knowledge coming to the plaintiff that Attorney Burke owns several thousand shares of valuable oil stock.

Burke said his home belongs to his family. He denied owning an automobile or other valuable. "How much money have you at the present time?" asked Hood.

"I am sorry to state I have almost nothing," replied Burke, urbanely. "Next week I may make a little money on certain stocks, but I haven't a share just now."

Finally the plaintiff gave up the examination, stating he thought nothing could be gained by any more questioning. Burke shook hands with Hood and said he would be pleased to come into court at any time to expose his poverty. Burke maintains offices in Washington and occupies a corner in a downtown building.

WIDOW ATTENDS FUNERAL.

Though Held as Alleged Accomplice of Confessed Slayer of Her Husband, the Woman Shows Grief.

Closely veiled in black and wearing a gown of mourning Mrs. Emma Nelson, accused of having instigated the slaying of her own husband, attended the funeral services at the Pierce chapel yesterday.

She was accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Wright who with Deputy Sheriff Bradford dug into the facts and secured the assassin after two police officers were inclined to believe the death of Frank E. Nelson was either suicide or the work of a madman.

Mrs. Nelson showed considerable emotion when the body was laid at rest in Rosedale Cemetery, and wept as she returned to the County Jail, where she is held without bail.

This woman will be given a preliminary examination before Justice Young Thursday on a charge of murder in the first degree, though Fred Cook, her alleged lover, has confessed that he shot Nelson. The law in this state makes a person aiding or abetting a crime equally culpable with the one who actually commits the offense.

Recovered From Severe Lung Trouble.

Plenty of fresh air and good food are necessary to persons suffering from lung trouble. In cases of severe trouble it is necessary to bring about full health. A remedy in a medicine for throat and lung trouble, and many reports have been received showing that it brought about good results in a number of cases which were considered hopeless, that all sufferers who are hesitating whether they should at least investigate what it has done for others investigate this case:

"Gentlemen: In December, 1901, March, 1902 and September, 1903, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs which continued several weeks, each time to my bed. My doctor advised me to go West. In November I started for Denver, Colo. After my arrival at my destination, I met Michael Brody, who upon learning of my condition, urged me to take Holman's Alternative. In about two months I began to feel better. I kept on taking the medicine and improved fast. In March, 1913, I returned home. I think I am entirely well. When I left Denver my weight was 120 pounds. I now weigh 145, my normal weight. I thank God and your Alternative for my health."

(Address) PAUL L. FARNACH, 1000 Broadway, New York City.

Holman's Alternative has been proven by scores of severe trouble and lung ailments. Bronchitis, Pneumonia, Asthma, Strabismus, Chronic Catarrh, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all lung troubles. Few actors can look back over such

McDowell is conceded to be the best interpreter of Sardou's wonderful plays who ever lived. He brings with him his own company, and perhaps for the last time, Los Angeles will have opportunity to see this product of a school in which Maude Adams, Virginia Harwood and Olga Davenport were kindergartners. In some of his favorite roles.

Tet in spite of his great success on the stage, one might almost call Melbourne McDowell an accident. He ran away to sea when he was a small boy, and the captain's bridge was the goal of his ambition. It was mere chance that cast him into the show business with his brother.

Even then he was not an actor,
but served as treasurer of the com-

What the Play Does and Does Not Do With This Vexing Problem.

BY HENRY CHURCHILL WARWICK

THE first person plural of the Really, there is nothing soft about a divorce, either in securing it or in after you resort to the law for a Drag yourself through the mire of divorce and you will know that something has happened to you. It may be an exquisitely-arranged affair and be far more reasonable than your marriage ever was and still you will feel that life is one and mistake after another. A divorce is always unnatural because it is the bitter climax of an unnatural marriage.

Back East, theater-goers are being confronted with a new play called "The Divorce Question" which I have never seen nor read. Two or three companies are playing it, which is a sure sign that it is getting over. I hope it is big stuff because I believe in plays with a purpose providing they are written by an artist and played by people who can think and feel. It is still only belief and not knowledge with me because none of the plays touching the divorced between husband and wife have as yet gone very far toward the answer. Strindberg

HOW STELLA MAYHEW AND CLARENCE DROWN STARTED

"Rep" Shows and Tiny Salaries Became Myths Over Night—Success of Star Brought Her "Discoverer" Into Prominence—Sharp Contrasts Make Hit With Circuit Managers.

BY GARDNER BRADFORD.

THIS is the story of how Clarence Drown, manager of the Orpheum, got into vaudeville and became manager of the local variety palace.
All the time, though, Miss Mayhew had a hunch that she should go into vaudeville. In those days, when it was quite a venture. "You be my manager," she told Mr. Drown, "and I am sure we can make some money."

Accordingly it was arranged that the pair were to split, fifty, fifty, of all Mr. Drown could secure for Miss Mayhew in excess of $15, and it was armed with full authority from the lady, the erstwhile "rep" manager one day dropped in on the offices of the Orpheum circuit and asked for "time" for the "greatest com should who ever lived."

In the meantime he had secured her a date in one of the smaller houses, and a hearing was arranged.
Of course, it was in a great measure due to the hit Miss Mayhew made that things turned out as they did, but nevertheless, when he saw the papers that he next morning by appointment, Clarence Drown had his nervous when he asked for a girl who had never made more than $15 a week in her life, the then modest salary of $125 a week. He got it, too, and as the rep show was still booked for a few dates, arrangements were made for the forwarding of the contract.

In due time it appeared. Miss May-hew could not believe her eyes. Not so Drown, the first thing he detected was a clause which gave 5 per cent.
to the home office for the booking.
It was a new one on him, and he insisted on sending back the contract.

The $30 per Miss Mayhew, with $125 in her hand, minus only an insignificant 5 per cent. for the troupe in her eye, but without avail.
Drown couldn't see that 5 per cent.
back went the contract, also a current letter, and in the thirteen days that followed it is recorded that Miss May-hew lost thirty pounds. It came back, however, yes, the thirty pounds, but the contract came first, this time. O. K., and this new vocal wonder made her first plunge into "big time."

This, however, was only the beginning. After the Orpheum engagement was concluded the couple found themselves in Chicago, where Mr.
Drown succeeded in booking Miss Mayhew with Murdoch, who became a big factor in the U.S.O. offices with E. F. Albee.

It was through this engagement that he came in touch with Martin Beck. The upshot was that Stella Mayhew once again received the jolt of her young life by getting a contract at $250. As a manager Drown was a howling success.

Really though, it was that kick over the 5 per cent. which was Drown's big start, for when Martin Beck learned the whole story from start to finish, as outlined here, he dug up the embryo variety king and insisted that he manage the first Orpheum road show.

It was one of those bills which today would cost something like $14-000 a week, including such stars as Creag and Dunn, Jack Norworth and Louise Dresser, etc.

Nothing like it had ever been seen before, and today Mr. Drown laughingly recalls some of the tank towns where the yobels would come ahead up to the window and ask if the show was all right to take their girls to.

So you can imagine what a chin-chin there will be, at the Orpheum this week, with Billie Taylor acting as chaperon. Miss Mayhew has been here before, but that was six or seven years ago, and before the present playhouse was scarce more than dreamed of.

Yes, she has regained that thirty pounds she lost, and many more, and $250 has long since become pin money. Also, Clarence Drown doesn't get fifty-fifty of everything over $15 any more, which, from one point of view, is sad.

Just the same they are indebted to each other, in a way, for the positions in the vaudeville world they held today, and while it may put a little crimp in Orpheum receipts this week, it is doubtful Drown has ever taken greater pleasure in making out a pay check than the one he will this week sign in behalf of Stella Mayhew.

Pantages.
It's such an easy matter to say "The best show in town," but, really, the offering next week at Pantages Theatre is away above the ordinary vaudeville bill—entertaining, clean and most interesting throughout. Popular favor probably will be divided between the five-character dramatic offering, "Destiny," Marshall and Treble in negro comedy, and Menlo Moore's "Sorority Days," with each so good it is hard to pick the most pleasing.

In an individual way, William Schilling, as the westerner in "Destiny," is the star of the show. Schilling has a character study which calls for intense dramatic action and which he handles with the ability of a true actor. Bryant's "No man of woman born, coward or brave, can shun his destiny," is the pivot about which the story of "Destiny" revolves. It tells of a woman's greed for money and a man's ambition to supply her with it, resulting in his ruin.

and Treble are comedy.
Considered circuit. They have a style of far-making all their own, while their dances are entirely unique and original and they should provide one of the brightest spots on the new program.

A genuine novelty will be furnished by the Leland with their pantograph spectacles. Their offering is entirely new and a patented effect—a discovery of their own that has proved very much of a sensation with vaudeville audiences all over America.

Others on the new bill will be Evans and Vidone, the blackface comedians, with their clever songs, parodies and stories; Walter and Ill in their lively little comedy, "Just a Girl," and the new comedy motion picture.

Hippodrome.
The mere announcement that the great Melbourne McDowell, co-star with Fanny Davenport and with Blanche Walsh, will headline this week's bill at the Hippodrome, beginning with the matinee Monday, is of sufficient importance to stir local theatrical circles to the core, and the news is made doubly interesting through the fact that Mr. McDowell and his associate players will present the great fourth act from "La Tosca," perhaps the most dramatic scene ever written by Sardou.

The capture of this big feature by the Western States Vaudeville Association and the securing of the act for Los Angeles by Resident Manager Pantages is one of the really big stunts of the year.

In support of this remarkable headliner will be a bill of more than ordinary merit. Among the attractions of the best musical acts in vaudeville, will be a melodious feature, while Virginia Ware will bring a voice of unsurpassed excellence.

As a real Hippodrome sensation Grace Cameron presents Okada, king of the silver threads, assisted by Bob Evans and his orchestra, and a variety of well as startling and certain to give "Hip" goes a real thrill.

The big comedy feature of the new bill will be De Lea and Orma, who style their offering "the best of comedy." When it comes to freckles, this six-foot lady has even the comeliest man beaten.

ART AND ARTISTS.

SKETCHES IN CALIFORNIA.

THE first of the month ago, when a young architect-artist of Hollywood, exhibited at the Hotel Club in this city a number of interesting sketches made in our local California. They were done, for the most part in lead pencil touched here and there with colored pencils.

The color, indeed, was generally a mere suggestion, a tilt to the imagination. Lyon's theory is that if the artist finds something to draw he mustn't draw it, if a bit of color appeals, he must hint it, not put it crudely down. In other words, he holds that the artist should look at nature impressionally and record on paper or canvas only what he actually needs for the expression of his emotion.

Now, Chinatown is full of color, violent greens and reds and yellows. Lyon saw them by day, but he elected to paint them by night, so he used brown paper for his background, letting his vari-colored pencil dart deftly over it, and indubitably gave us Chinatown—its mystery and its charm, but not its violence. The little Chinatown studies are again being shown, this time at the Hollywood public library, with a number of recent sketches made at San Pedro, at Manhattan Beach and at the mission of San Juan Capistrano.

There are also two interesting decorative panels, pen and ink and water color embellishments for Henry Van Dyke's poem on Sierra Madre, written and read when the poet was here last year, and for William Butler Yeats's poem, "The Peacock." Around the Van Dyke poem appear the flowers and fruits of California, suggested in delicate flat design. The Yeats poem is treated more "in the round," with a marble palace seen under the glimmers of pallid moonlight, the peacock being perched on a pedestal in the foreground. Both decorations are sympathetically interpreted.

A few unusually lovely things are to be seen in the Capistrano sketches. Lyon found the wonderful old mission exactly to his liking. The beauty of its crumbling architecture appealed to him strongly. The classic simplicity of "Columns in Old Church" is at once apparent. If I were Keats I would write a poem on that tall and slender column—and my lyric would have the Greek spirit. Lyon drew it and made it Hellenic, using a lead pencil for its construction, red and yellow pencils for the broken bricks, a light blue one for the sky above it. Almost equally attractive is "Corner of Crossing," with the same delicate details of broken bricks and mortar.

As a work of art as well as a subject for speculation, and should not be passed by any art lover in Los Angeles.

SKETCHES IN CALIFORNIA.

THE first of the month ago, when a young architect-artist of Hollywood, exhibited at the Hotel Club in this city a number of interesting sketches made in our local California. They were done, for the most part in lead pencil touched here and there with colored pencils.

The color, indeed, was generally a mere suggestion, a tilt to the imagination. Lyon's theory is that if the artist finds something to draw he mustn't draw it, if a bit of color appeals, he must hint it, not put it crudely down. In other words, he holds that the artist should look at nature impressionally and record on paper or canvas only what he actually needs for the expression of his emotion.

Now, Chinatown is full of color, violent greens and reds and yellows. Lyon saw them by day, but he elected to paint them by night, so he used brown paper for his background, letting his vari-colored pencil dart deftly over it, and indubitably gave us Chinatown—its mystery and its charm, but not its violence. The little Chinatown studies are again being shown, this time at the Hollywood public library, with a number of recent sketches made at San Pedro, at Manhattan Beach and at the mission of San Juan Capistrano.

Newness

In Draperies—

NEW weaves—but chiefly new because they harmonize so accurately with the new color schemes.

There's a rose-and-green Sunfast in a solid flower design; and a Sunfast in the Japanese blues and cream; the mulberry tones and in bronze colorings.

And new tinted Punjab drapery stuffs—soft greens, rose, the Old Blues and yellow. Especially are these attractive when they are used as over-drapes with the plain white net curtains. Punjab draperies at 50 cents the yard.

CALL NEW AIRSHIP PERFECT.

British Admiralty Is Negotiating Construction of Most Efficient Type Yet Invented.

Construction of "The Times" MILAN, Sept. 4.—The British Admiralty are now negotiating the purchase of the most efficient airship yet constructed. This machine was recently seen in several tests and attained the great speed of fifty-four miles per hour. The machine is of Italian make, and Great Britain is the most favored nation as regards the purchase of Italian aircraft. It is, therefore, nearly certain that a large fleet of these ships will be put on order forthwith.

European "court" silks

Monday we display a brilliant collection of imported silks—the like of which Los Angeles has never seen—in fact they are weaves that have never before been offered to any except the grand dames of the gorgeous European courts.

Our being able to offer them in Los Angeles at a time is made possible only by special arrangement with the great John Wanamaker stores of New York and Philadelphia, which used all of their tremendous buying powers to get the Wonder Silk Mills of France to weave extra dress lengths of the patterns that had been ordered by royal ladies of many lands.

—Among those which we invite you to see on Monday—are—

—Rich brocade velvet in French blue on a black crepe ground—and another of rose pink velvet brocade on pearl gray crepe. These are both priced $13.50 yard.
—Soft heavy costume silk in black with a brocade pattern in tinsel gold and then others in white and in pink with gold brocade designs and a dazzling piece of heavy gold satin brocade with silver—These are priced $13.50 yard.

—Heavy silks in matelasse effects with striking color contrasts. The kind of silks that Cinderella's fairy godmother must have created for her court robes—$12.50 yard.

cade designs in gold and silver. These come in moleskin, rose, new blue, white and black at $11.25 yard.

novel colorings at $5.75 yard.

—Two exclusive gown patterns of heavy chiffon with beautiful border designs in gold and silver—one is in a rich navy, the other in a soft taupe—Priced $45 pattern.

—Silks that resemble our chiffon taffetas with exquisite brocade and floral patterns. These are to be used for sashes and for linings. They are priced $5.75, $6.25 and $6.50 yard.
Silk Store—South Aisle.

"I have been hearing about them on all sides—every one who has seen them has been so enthusiastic that I am sure they will prove to be just exactly to my liking."

—And when you see them Monday you'll go away enthused—not only over the one you buy—but over the scores of others as well.

—They're all distinctive models—some plain—some semi-fancy.
They're made by Master Tailors, who have given them a character and an individuality that you never look for in suits at anywhere's near this price.

—They are suits that will command attention everywhere by the excellence of their materials (which include English serges, granite cloths, chevots, diagonals and poplins)—the richness of their colorings and the perfectness of their tailoring and the refinement of their styles.

—Even though there are scores of them, we used the same care and taste in choosing each and every one of them that you will use in choosing your one suit on Monday!

A great sample line of "Fisk" hats at $9.75

—This we believe is the best millinery news that The Times prints today—Fisk hats at $9.75—and that's close to and way less than half price—all because they are samples.

—There are hats of brocade velvet—of erect pile plush and of satin, some with striking ostrich swirls, others with large airy numidia, and still others with fancy bows and frills of gold lace. The shapes include the new side flares—tams, tricorns and close fitting draped turbans.

—Some of the samples were exact duplicates of hats we had in regular stocks and so the hats in regular stocks have lost all of their prices except $9.75—some of them lost over half.

shown in Los Angeles so far this season.

—Think what this sale means—coming just as it does at the very beginning of the Fall season. Many women are going to be able to buy two hats where they had only planned on one, and others will have hats world's prettier than they ever dreamed they could buy for $9.75.
Note the ones we've pictured here and then make it a point to see the hats in the window today and plan to come choosing as early as possible Monday morning.

button trimmed. There are models with long full length sleeves and there are others with 3/4 sleeves.

—Dozens and dozens of exquisite waists of chiffon have had a goodly share of their prices clipped in order that they may find new homes in a hurry and make room in the Waist Shop for other waists which are on their way from the land of the new.

—At $2.19—will be rich chiffon waists in taupe, navy, gray and Copenhagen with shadow lace yokes and trimmings of silk buttons—then there are others

$2.19.

Fashion Decreases—False Hair Must GO

Fashion's decrees are frequently of an uncompromising nature, and yet we all bow to her mandates with humility.

The late reaction to plain styles in hair dressing is decidedly gratifying to almost everyone. The prevailing idea seems to be simplicity, coolness and comfort.

The uncomfortable masses of germ-harboring false hair and rats are, when possible, being cast aside, and the woman or miss who cares to be strictly up-to-date is relying upon her own natural hair for adornment. This means that more painstaking care must be exerted in saving one's own hair and in enhancing its beauty.

The Modish World Adopts Newbro's Herpicide

Long, thick, luxuriant hair is merely a question of care and cultivation. If your scalp itches, and the hair is dull, brittle, uneven and coming out with every combing, it is because its life is being destroyed by the presence of dandruff.

Such a condition demands the regular and intelligent use of Newbro's Herpicide. The best informed and most fastidious people everywhere are aware of this and rely upon the world's best-known scalp prophylactic to keep the scalp free from dandruff and to give to the hair that life, lustre and luxuriance which are so beautiful.

The odor of HERPICIDE is exquisite, the sensation of coolness and cleanliness a delight and the visible results are frequently astonishing.

and Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Wright. Pasadena. Miss Allen, who taught the primary grade at Buena Park last year, was chosen principal this year, and Miss Ingram takes charge of the primary department.

A jolly crowd of young people gathered at the home of Mrs. Rose Hodson of La Habra and gave a surprise party to Mr. and Mrs. Wade Hodson. The party was a farewell gathering, as Mr. and Mrs. Hodson will leave in a few days for their new home at Turlock.

Miss Stella Clark was visited by the members of the Philathene class of the Baptist Sunday-school Saturday and showered with gifts.

Mrs. Calvin Otteson and her little daughter, who left Imperial to escape the heat season, returned to their home in Holtville Saturday.

Olga Johnson entertained three of her friends, Laura and Mildred Porter and Margaret Gallimore at a luncheon Friday afternoon.

Miss M. E. Murray, a guest at the home of J. A. Greenough, has returned to Long Beach.

San Bernardino. THE month of September is proving almost as much a month for brides as June, numerous weddings having occurred in the last two weeks. One of the most interesting was that of Miss Helen Seymour and Harry H. Harris, which occurred Wednesday, being celebrated quietly owing to the illness of the bride's mother. The happy couple are spending their honeymoon in Los Angeles and the beaches.

A marriage that was of great interest to her San Bernardino friends, coming also as a great surprise, was that of Miss Jean Holcomb and Ray Adams in Los Angeles. The bride had gone to the city to visit friends for a few days and word came back that she was the bride of Mr. Adams, who formerly resided here. The bride had the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Holcomb of this city, and is a most popular young woman. They will reside in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Will Dalldorf entertained a company of friends at her Grant-street home Wednesday afternoon in honor of Miss Gladys Hill. A delicious dinner, dancing and music filled the happy hours. Pink roses formed the table decorations, and covers were laid for Miss Gladys Hill, Mrs. J. A. Johnson, Miss Nora Kelley, E. O. Faulkner, Frank Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. Dalldorf.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Harris have returned from a trip of several months in the East. They first attended the Gettysburg reunion, then traveled through New England to their old home in Maine, then to Quebec and other parts of the East.

News has been received here of the marriage of Howard H. Kemp, for seven years resident of this city, and Miss Nellie A. Clark, at the old home of the groom at Salem, Ind. The young people were old sweethearts in school days and the attachment of these years has never grown cold. They will return to California, and probably make their home in Los Angeles.

Eagle Rock. LAST Wednesday evening the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Hannaford was the scene of a beautiful wedding, when Mrs. Frances E. Crayton became the bride of William Edgar Johnson. The Rev. Hoyt read the service. The bride was attired in a blue silk gown with a train of blue and white tulle. Her only attendant, Miss Gracie Johnson, was of the groom, scattered rose petals in the path of the bride. Her bridesmaid, Miss Gracie Johnson, was of the groom, scattered rose petals in the path of the bride. some rule in Ireland is absurd. For instance, here are the words forming the first part of the coronation oath, on which the Dis Hards found their ground:

If these words do not mean that the King shall govern as a constitutional sovereign—that is to say, as a sovereign who abides faithfully by the decisions taken by Parliament and by the customs sanctioned by Parliamentary usage, then words have no meaning.

In spite of this, however, leading Unionists are stamming every nerve to get King George to make this oath written: "If we God forbid!" the present bill were to become law, possible that the King and Parliament in Ireland might be able to make such assertions, "commanding death to light in one's realm, and darkening the indignation and gloom?" It is impossible, and of this I repeat, and I repeat to the blind."

The Truth About "Cash or Credit"—Some Interesting Facts

We've never advertised that we sell our Merchandise as cheap on Credit as we do for Cash—for two reasons. First, WE DON'T THINK THE PEOPLE WOULD BELIEVE US. Second, WE BELIEVE IN HONEST ADVERTISING. On every floor of our store you'll find a banner with this inscription:—"All Goods Priced at Lowest Possible Figures for Cash." We make no rebate, give no discounts, nor pay commissions to anyone sending or influencing customers to buy here.

There's the story in a nutshell—the explanation of our increase of 60 per cent of business for the first six months this year over last year. For twenty years we've extended credit on the following basis:—when a customer selects $100 worth of goods, we add 10 per cent. Our terms on this sale would be $14 as first payment and $8 per month for twelve months. If the customer desires to close his account before the contract expires, we rebate 10 per cent for every dollar that is paid before it is due.

Example 1—$100 worth of goods, bought on credit January 1, would have 10 per cent added to the price of each article, so the $100 would be charged as $110. If the customer desired to close the contract on February 1, we would deduct the 10 per cent that was added, so he would have the merchandise at the cash price and 10 days in which to pay the remaining $86.

Example 2—$100 worth of goods, bought January 1 on credit, would be paid for as follows:—$14.00 down, $8 February 1, $8 March 1, $8 April 1, $8 May 1, $8 June 1. This totals $54. If you desired to close your contract on July 1, you would be rebated 10 per cent on every dollar that was to be paid during the coming six months.

You can see for yourself that our System, used for over twenty years, is FAIR, SQUARE, AND HONEST. IT PAYS TO TRADE AT BRENT'S—THE STORE OF HONEST ADVERTISING.

Living models—a group of the most beautiful and graceful young women to be found in the Southland will wear the exquisite new hats, wraps and costumes that we've assembled for the UNITED FASHION SHOW and give you the opportunity to inspect their charming individuality from every viewpoint. Long preparation and lavish expenditure has gone to the making of a setting for this exhibition that will be significant beyond anything hitherto attempted in Los Angeles—Welcome!

Thursday, Friday, Saturday
September 25th, 26th, 27th

We will present the new models in millinery and apparel for the fall and winter 1913-14 with a panorama of styles from 1847 down to the present date, covering the Medici, Marie Antoinette, Martha Washington, Emancipation, and the most recent fashions. An authentic and intensely interesting exhibit, magnificently performed in a Beautiful Italian Garden, 4th Floor

10 to 12 A. M. and 1:30 to 4 P. M.

World renowned style creators have sent their richest, most charming creations for this—the first complete disclosure of the new season's accepted modes. Before a myriad of eyes, Marie Antoinette, Martha Washington, Emancipation, and the most recent fashions will be seen in the very latest word from the Rue de la Paix—the center of the world.

Gowns Shown in the Illustration

Black of black brocaded crepe with the new design caught up with jet ornament and beaded tassels. High-waisted model with bodice of allover lace and a skirt elaborated with beaded net. Butterfly ornament in the center of the world.

A creation of lustrous silk plush with a high waist line and a wide line of crush plush with a bodice of allover shadow lace with a finish of fine net and chiffon.

From Queen Fashion's Realm

Autumn marks the general acceptance of the new fashion—the outline that has hovered somewhat tentatively on the fashion horizon since last May. It prescribes the fashionable woman must stand out like a lampshade, with the hips and knees, and this effect is attained not by mere draperies, but by the tunic, deftly fitted to swing away from the figure and make a vivid contrast between its slowness and the width of the outer line.

And Lucille of the Parisian designers feature the new line and use the large armhole for long sleeves and short.

Particularly favors the Chinese motif in colors and designs. This house also favors the long Japanese collar and the drape that subtly suggest the Geisha girl.

IN THE BALKANS.Checkmate Sir Edward Grey in Diplomatic Game.Triple Alliance Victorious in the Great Conflict.England Is Held Responsible for the Bloodshed.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]
LONDON, Sept. 20.—"No British newspaper has dared to mention it, but the fact remains that among British diplomats all over the world there exists profound dissatisfaction with Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Minister.

A few weeks ago men thought he was another Beaconsfield, another Salisbury, a second Gladstone. Today events in the Balkans have revealed him in his true character—as the painted lath in European politics. When it was a mere matter of words nobody could speak with stouter eloquence, or more measured accents. When the time came for deeds—when Turkey pretended she would be content with the treaty of London, but quietly marched an army into Adrianople—nobody looked more foolish than Sir Edward Grey, more impotent, more ineffective. He could do nothing then but sit down and leave his country to eat the proud, boastful things he had uttered in her name and on her behalf.

The speaker was one of the leading diplomats in London—a man who had every reason to speak well of English diplomatic methods and to value Sir Edward Grey's personal and political friendship. But, as he added with a typical shrug of the shoulders, "truth is great and prevails." And the truth is—Sir Edward Grey has been hoodwinked and checkmated badly by the triple alliance. He has been completely out-maneuvred by the representatives of Germany, Italy and Austria, who assembled at his pet scheme, the Ambassadors' Conference, and made him the mouthpiece of all the offensive things that their masters did not dare to state to Turkey or to the Balkan combatants.

What is the result? England has said things to Turkey in her hour of humiliation that she will never forget. One after another, Bulgaria, Greece and Serbia have turned their backs on Great Britain and pleaded with her to take decisive measures to stop that terrible carnage and bloodshed; and Sir Edward Grey has met them only with pious platitudes or recitals of cheap politico-economic maxims. And the shrieks of the wounded—the screams of women and children—the crash of cannon—and the grisly rushes of enteric, starvation, and panic have never ceased in Thrace and Macedonia. And on what does this Sir Edward now congratulate himself? That for years "it has been an axiom of diplomacy that if ever war broke out in the Balkans it would be impossible to prevent it. The present critical balance of power in Europe. There are other and bigger things afoot. In France a war with Germany this fall is openly avowed by the young radicals. Turkey, too, has no stable government, and any moment revolution may tear her into a score of pieces. In the Balkans the powers that wall longest will get the most. And until the armies of Europe have been reorganized and enlarged it pays everybody to wait until these paper manufacturers buffer states complete their death struggles.

The only power that could have intervened in the Balkans with comparatively clear conscience is Great Britain. Germany says this—Germany that for years has tried to gain the role of protector of the Moslems in Turkey, too, has no stable government, and any moment revolution may tear her into a score of pieces. In the Balkans the powers that wall longest will get the most. And until the armies of Europe have been reorganized and enlarged it pays everybody to wait until these paper manufacturers buffer states complete their death struggles.

FLATTERED BRITISH VANITY.

Such a tribute from such a quarter is calculated to flatter British vanity, while showing the French and Russians what "small beer" they are compared with the mighty British military power of the coast of the continent, who, by superior skill and cunning, is able to reap the harvest of the Balkan wars.

The real fact is, Germany through these operations in the Balkans knew her own mind. With clear thinking which is characteristic of her foreign policy, she determined that Sir Edward Grey should do all the fancy work of the Balkan crisis, but should not be allowed to score out of it. On the contrary, she decreed that in the end he should be unmasked as a man of fine words, but no grit, a Minister whom Turkey and Bulgaria and Serbia and Greece would do well to take at the smallest and the lowest valuation.

Likeness of Savior Startles Critics.

Which was painted recently by a woman artist in London and which is a topic of discussion in art circles on account of the inspiration that is said to have accompanied the work.

FAMOUS CHRIST PORTRAIT
PAINTED IN TWO HOURS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]
LONDON, Sept. 20.—A portrait of Christ, which it is said has been painted under direct inspiration from another world, is the sensation of the moment in art circles of London.

This picture has not yet been shown in public, but at an early date it will be exhibited to British critics and then shipped off to the United States for exhibition in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Pittsburgh, Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco and other American cities.

The artist is a lady, Miss H. Kerr, who has a large studio at Bedford Gardens, Camden Hill, in the heart of the artists' quarter of London, and recently she gave the following remarkable story of how her picture started into life and came into existence.

"The artistic temperament lies dormant," she observed, "in the hearts of all those destined to be artists. To me when I began, all religious pictures that were not ideal either shocked or pained me. Thus certain realistic representations of the Sacred Heart of Christ were to me a continual eyecore, and on adopting art as my career, I vowed, if I came with a spirit of the Sacred Heart, I would paint it in Paris.

"I was going to do something great, I began my preparations, such as alternating the light and posing the model, but alas, I soon became aware that it required the brush of genius to transmit my dream to canvas.

"Luckily, Paris, that city of cities, and center of art, is alive with a spirit of brotherhood for artists that the French nation alone can give. Help and advice are yours just for the asking, and soon I had to beg of one of my neighbors to come and see if the composition was worthy of the subject. Splendid," said he, and then immediately he added, "but do it—if you can. His hint was not lost. I soon found the difficulties of my task were too heavy for me. After some futile attempts I gave up the conception amid discouragement and despair.

"What is the good of modern art?" I asked myself with bitterness. "Artists nowadays are incapable of anything great." Finally I told the model that I would pay him, but would not require his services any more.

"Verily, I believe he was the greater artist of the two. He so keenly felt my disappointment that he suggested I should try to do merely a head of Christ, adding: 'It is a pity you waste the money and pay for sitting you

WARNS IRELAND AGAINST SCOURGENew York Doctor Describes Origin of Consumption.Industries About Dublin Are Fast Dying Out.Nervy Widow Defies Sheriff's Attempt at Eviction.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]
DUBLIN, Sept. 20.—The utterances of Dr. J. Walsh, professor of pathology of the Catholic College, New York, who has been touring Ireland recently, have produced the profoundest sensation among the members of his own profession here, and especially among those who are battling with the scourge of consumption.

The professor insists that 99 per cent. of the young men and women who emigrate to the United States and are obliged to settle down in congested areas in the large towns and cities contract tuberculosis sooner or later. The Irish doctors who have been charged with the administration of the newly set up sanatoria, have noticed that many of those who have returned from the States have a peculiar tendency to develop the disease on reaching their native soil, but they were not prepared for the sensational pronouncement of Prof. Walsh that the seeds were sown during residence in the slum areas of the American cities.

The Anti-Emigration Society has seized on the statement and has given it prominence in their literature, which is being distributed freely at the church doors, and in the market places throughout the South and West of Ireland. It has even been made the subject of pulpit reference, and as a result many fathers and mothers would wish their child children back in the bosom of the family.

IRISH INDUSTRIES DYING.
"At every meeting for months past we have had to lament the extinction of some little industry in Ireland," said the chairman at the monthly meeting of the joint committee of the Richmond District Lunatic Asylum. "This prospect ought to alarm Irishmen as it does not mean national health, but commercial disaster."

He pointed out how recently they had to report the closing down in Wexford of the only straw hat factories in the country. Today it was announced that the tanner of Irish box calf leather had given up the undertaking in Cork, from lack of support. Store windows in Dublin were choked with foreign products.

He could enumerate many more industries which would expand into hives of labor if a concentrated effort were made to sustain them. The industrial organizations in Dublin and their agents throughout the country had done much to diffuse a knowledge of Irish products, but their efforts required to be supplemented by more alert public sympathy of the practical kind.

The Irish artist could stand the test of quality and price, but there seemed to be a rooted prejudice in the minds of some people that this was not so. It could be demonstrated in the most convincing manner that the general adoption of home manufactures in public institutions in Ireland had been highly beneficial to the rate payers. Some drastic steps should be taken to arrest this decay and every inducement held out to Irish capitalists to compete with foreign imports.

SEQUEL TO EVICTION SCENE.
An amusing and quite unexpected sequel has just occurred in regard to an attempted eviction in Ireland. Although Mr. Dawson, the owner of a house at Costello, had given permission to evict Mrs. O'Connell, his tenant, that lady has, by a display of violence, managed to secure a new lease.

When the Sheriff's representative and half a dozen policemen reached the house they found each window occupied by determined people armed with stones, while shouting from the roof were flags of all descriptions. The dispute was therefore settled without delay and the lady was again accepted as a tenant of the bravely defended house.

RAD DAYS COMING FOR PIGS.
Pig rearing is no longer a popular occupation among the farming class in Ireland and black is the outlook for Irish bacon.

Various causes have been recently advanced to account for this decrease in pig production in the Emerald Isle. Some experts attribute it to the disappearance of landlordism that has certainly done much to diminish effect on the enterprise in the last days when the small farmer's pig was the bank upon which the landlord drew for his yearly rental. Others, however, put forward an entirely different reason for the decline and the consequent high price of Irish bacon at the present time. There is, it seems, a foolish type of young woman growing up in Ireland that regards pig feeding as being entirely beneath her notice. This damsel prefers emigration or factory work to service in a farmer's house where a part of her daily occupation might consist of attending to the requirements of the piggery.

In fact, many of the larger farmers in the south and midland counties who specialized in pig breeding, have been obliged to discontinue their operations simply because they cannot get the necessary labor. Young women can be no longer obtained at wages from 14s. to 18s. a year, and those who will take on domestic service at all will cooily stipulate that they must not be called upon to feed pigs.

Such is the attitude that the improved conditions of living has produced among the peasant population of Ireland.

Dr. Johnson was once in the company of a man who affected to maintain Dean Berkeley's strange position, that "nothing exists but as perceived by some mind." When the gentleman was going away, Dr. Johnson said to him: "Pray, sir, don't leave us for we may perhaps forget to think of you, and then you will cease to exist."

Friends of King George Will Try to Abolish Practice at Country Homes.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]
LONDON, Sept. 20.—Two particular friends of King George, Lord and Lady Repton, among the kind and thoughtful house who are credited with an attempt to destroy the tipping custom in country homes.

At one time the guests were appealed to by means of printed notices, "not to give gratuities to the servants." But who can resist the steady sally of the untipped servant? Who has the moral courage to pass out to the auto waiting to take him to the station, while the butler stands pointing the way and one footman hands a rug and another opens the door of the auto—who dares to leave these worthless empty-handed?

And so it happens that the tipping nuisance is perpetual, although our hosts place a box in the hall for the "pooling" of tips. That made it easier for the wealthy to avoid giving gold—and, indeed, money of any sort, for it is rumored that, on one occasion, a commemorative medal of no value was found in this wonderful hall box.

Recently a millionaire was conducted over a famous house. As an especial privilege, the butler opened the place and showed him around. He was a gorgeous person, who probably had never seen anything under a 15 bill.

The dreadful moment came when it was a question of what to give this princely fellow. The millionaire fumbled in his pocket. He was no doubt extracting a good-sized note. No. He turned and said to his companion: "Say, I suppose 25 cents will do for this chap."

The other day a famous London hotel manager told his patron: "The most generous in tips, South Americans; the most extravagant in their diet, Germans; the most finicky, French; the most smooth-tongued, English; the hardest to please, Americans; the most aristocratic, Italians; the best tempered, Dutch; the meanest upstart, Spanish."

This image shows a vertical strip of material that appears to be a heavily worn and damaged book binding or a piece of old, thick paper. The surface is extremely dark, almost black, with a complex, fibrous texture. There are numerous fine scratches, scuffs, and areas of discoloration throughout. A prominent, lighter-colored vertical line runs down the center, suggesting a crease or a joint in the material. The overall appearance is one of significant age and physical degradation.

WOULD HELP ERRING ONES.

Suggests Life of Ranch for Delinquent Girls.

Fresh Air and Free Existence Best of Remedies.

Interested Women Seek Gift of Required Acres.

The persistent efforts of two earnest women my result in obtaining a much-needed industrial farm home for the girls of the juvenile court.

Dr. Oira McNelle, medical probation officer, and Mrs. Mary Cope, matron of the juvenile ward at the County Hospital, who have been working on the plan for almost a year, announced yesterday that a local philanthropist had made a promise of assistance that practically assured the building of the institution.

Dr. McNelle and Mrs. Cope have been making a scientific study of the delinquent girl problem. Their data and conclusions have been submitted to persons who, they thought, might become interested in furnishing funds for the industrial ranch. Dr. McNelle has given her medical services to the juvenile court free of charge for fourteen months. Mrs. Cope has been matron of the juvenile ward at the County Hospital since it was established one year ago.

These statistics were compiled by Dr. McNelle from her observation of the cases of 100 delinquent girls: Average age, 15.1 years; needed medical attention, 15; married, 4; colored, 12; American born, 78; in school, 21; engaged in house work, 16; laundresses, 4; actresses, 4; telephone operators, 2; factory workers, 2.

The cases of the 100 girls were disposed of as follows: Bent home, 50; on probation (at work), 10; sent to reform school, 10; in hospital at present time, 3.

NEED OF A RANCH.

"We need a ranch near Los Angeles where delinquent girls could be given helpful and pleasant experience," Dr. McNelle said in her office in the auditorium building. "If these girls who have lacked home training and wholesome surroundings could be taken to a ranch for at least a year and given the proper education and instruction I believe that many of them would develop into normal women."

"Under present conditions only about 1 per cent of the girls are reformed. With the institution that we have in mind I believe that 25 to 30 per cent of them could be permanently reformed."

"We do not wish to establish a reform school, a 'Door of Hope' or anything of that sort, sympathy, entertainment, instruction, and outdoor life would make women out of many of them. Most of the girls should be helped until they are 21 years old. They should be given an education from one to five years."

"We have lately found a good friend who had offered to assist in establishing a ranch home. His promised gift will enable us to realize our dream. We are hoping that others will contribute toward the plan. For the present we are keeping the name of the philanthropist secret."

"After the industrial farm has been established, we are of the opinion that it can be made self-supporting. Our purpose is to construct a group of buildings on the cottage plan, a complete change of surroundings for the girls and give them something different in diet, mode of dressing and a good chance for rest, exercise and study."

"Delinquent girls should be given all possible advantages for two reasons. They belong to the great human brotherhood and therefore deserve our sympathy and assistance, and, secondly, it would be an advantage to the community to have them reformed."

WAGES WERE BETTER.

Dr. McNelle believes that the number of delinquent girls would be reduced if wages were higher, children were properly educated, marriages regulated, delinquent mothers punished, and industrial homes were built for the unfortunate.

Mrs. Cope has been exceptionally successful in dealing with the girls. Her rules with kindness rather than harsh methods and the words under her care usually become her friends. Discipline is not an important problem to her for, she believes, the influence of her personality overrules the necessity for rules.

"I deal with the girls on the theory that there is much good in them," Mrs. Cope said yesterday at the County Hospital. "I find them responsive to this method. Most of the girls who come here feel dependent and desire to be helped. Ignorance due to a lack of proper early training usually is responsible for their delinquency."

"Most of my wards are young enough to be benefited in the right kind of an industrial home. They need a chance to wholesome surroundings and to be impressed with the idea that there is somebody who cares for them."

"The establishment of the ward here in the hospital was a great advance in dealing with the girls, but we feel that much more could be accomplished in a place where they would not be penned up, but would have more freedom and greater opportunities for development."

"The hospital management has given the girls every attention and consideration and often they beg to stay after their time is out. The doctor's orders as to diet, treatment and rest are carried out explicitly. I take the girls on the lawn for an hour every day for recreation."

INDUSTRIAL SITE SOLD.

A. R. Chittenden reports the transfer of a portion of the third block on the south side of East Seventh street, easterly from Alameda street. The property involved in the transaction has a frontage of 150 feet on East Seventh street, with 134 feet on Lawrence street and 150 feet on Alameda street. It includes also an additional piece of property with a frontage of 84 feet on Decatur street. The holding has a total area of over 11,000 square feet. The property was acquired by a syndicate and was owned by John R. Vogel, T. J. Lockhart and William Woodward. The consideration in the deal just closed is not given.

To help the girls.

Dr. Oira McNelle, above, medical probation officer, and Mrs. Mary Cope, matron of the juvenile ward at the County Hospital, who are making headway in their efforts to obtain an industrial farm home for the girls of the juvenile court. They have the promise of assistance from a local philanthropist.

Absent-Minded Lover Gives the Name of Platoon Incorrectly and Nearly Postpones a Wedding Stated for Last Night—Clerk
Sparks Is Kind and Helps Out.

If "Maize, the Motor Maid," were to have a similar experience to this one, in getting a marriage license, she would take out her little book and begin a new series, with rule 1: "Always be sure of your best girl's name, before going in for the marriage game." This burst of policy is promoted by the narrow escape which a very pretty romance had from an irritating delay yesterday in the matter of securing the necessary license from Clerk Sparks. Horatio R. Stewart, recently of Brooklyn, but now living at the Astoria Hotel, this city, in the natural perturbation incident to the first offense in the matrimonial line, appeared before the marriage license tribunal yesterday morning and submitted to the usual catechism.

In one particular he was overtrained; he knew the name of the young lady given her at her baptism, but overlooked the later incident of her changing her name when she was adopted by her stepfather. The error was discovered about 1:40 in the afternoon, and Stewart hurried back to the Hall of Records, only to find the entrance to the marriage license office closed as inexorably as was the gate to the Garden of Eden, except that in this instance there was no angel with the flaming sword. The Saturday half-holiday had not been reckoned with by the groom-elect.

A short block away from the Hall of Records stands the New Times Building, and the eagle seemed to beckon the now thoroughly anxious young man, as by the hand of fate, and without a moment's hesitation he hastened thither to tell his troubles under the reassuring wings of the bird of freedom. There was an appeal in the situation and The Times immediately championed the young lover's cause, called on Clerk Sparks at his home and stated the urgency of the case. Sparks grasped the situation at once, and suggested that Stewart should take the first car to Sparks's house, where the tangle would be straightened. There the young man certified that his fiancée's name originally was Gladys Eugenia Keller, but that after her father's death and her mother's remarriage, the daughter was legally named after the stepfather and took the name of Gene Keller March.

The marriage took place last night. After a honeymoon in San Francisco, the young couple will be at home at the Astoria. The bride's stepfather is at present in Panama, being connected with the government service there. Mrs. March and her daughter making their home in this city during the summer months.

UNDER ADVISEMENT.

J. P. Kerner, proprietor of the Fashion riding academy on West Washington street, defended his establishment in the University Police Court yesterday against the charge of it being a livery stable. For years Kerner has conducted the riding academy, where large classes have been trained in equestrianism. Recently an effort was made to prove Kerner was renting his horses without giving lessons. He was arrested on a complaint sworn to by License Inspector McPhillips. Police Judge White has taken the evidence under consideration and will render a decision Saturday, October 4. At the hearing yesterday both sides had several witnesses. A number of prominent people testified to the high standard of the riding academy.

MILLIONS FOR OUTER HARBOR.

Elaborate Plans Submitted to Commission.

To Combine Municipal and Private Improvements.

Nineteen Large Warehouses in General Scheme.

Tentative plans for the general improvement of the properties held by the Outer Harbor Dock & Wharf Company at the Los Angeles Harbor were considered by the Harbor Commission yesterday, having been submitted by the company in connection with the proposed incorporation of the terminal facilities of the company with the great municipal terminal to be formed by use of the property of the city, the Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric railways.

The layout represented in the plans presented will call for an expenditure of from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000. The Outer Harbor Dock & Wharf Company proposed to improve a stretch of property 4800 feet in its total length, of which a length of 3800 feet will be piers.

The general scope of the scheme is extensive, as will be shown by a summary that includes nineteen large warehouses, ten coal bunkers, twelve transit sheds, three machine shops, an oil terminal with four 50,000-gallon tanks and one 10,000-gallon tank, a restaurant, power house, recreation grounds, clubhouse, administration building, etc.

The total amount of acreage included in the proposed development is 17.42 acres. Of this 14.37 acres will be devoted to transit sheds; 12.43 acres for second-class storage sheds; 6.67 acres for third-class storage and 1.94 acres for housing in flammable material.

Along the company's property on the east channel frontage it is proposed to have four transit sheds, recreation grounds, a clubhouse and a machine shop.

At the south end of the company's holdings, adjoining city property, will be coal bunkers and along the southeastern side of the south slip will be located elevators, while on the opposite side of the slip will be transit sheds.

There are to be transit sheds on both sides of the north slip, and also on the eastern side of the west channel and at its northern end. Six large warehouses are to be located in the rear of the present freight sheds, on the east side of the central portion of the wharf. A cold storage warehouse will be back of the transit sheds on the west channel.

A line of six large warehouses is also provided for the outer rim of the proposed extension of Crescent avenue, which is to reach the city's 146-acre tract. A tentative terminal for the Union Oil Company is provided in the plan, but this will not be permitted by the Harbor Commission unless provision is made for a slip with closed gates, so as to retain and recover oil that may be spilled in the waters.

Two storage yards are provided, one of which will accommodate 700 cars and the other seventy cars. There will also be trolley tracks the full length of the main wharf, back of the transit sheds. Three machine shops and locations in the general plan.

The development of these plans will require considerable dredging for slips and deepening the channels. The water's depth now averages thirty feet, while the dredging would give a depth of from thirty-five to forty feet.

The Harbor Commission has referred the plans submitted to Harbor Engineer Jubb to work out a scheme whereby the upper end of the Outer Harbor Dock & Wharf Company's layout can be co-ordinated with the general plan for the great municipal terminal. This is a matter of detail, and there is little doubt that the company's terminal properties will come into the larger terminal arrangement, details of which are being worked out by the Harbor Commission and its engineers.

President Woodman of the Harbor Commission has invited the railroad officials to attend a conference next Tuesday to further consider plans for the general terminal.

Overlooking Westlake Park.

Newly-opened Regent apartments, No. 2401 West Sixth street.

METROPOLITAN TYPE.

New Westlake Apartments Embody Latest Ideas in Construction and Appointment—Organ a Feature.

Noteworthy among the many fine apartment-houses recently completed in Los Angeles is the Regent, at No. 2401 West Sixth street, an improvement which embodies thoroughly modern ideas in construction and appointment. The place, which was planned by architect Frederick Noonan for Jacob Morris, is held under a long-term lease by Mrs. S. H. Leonard and has just been opened to the public.

The building, which is five stories in height, faces directly upon Westlake Park and is built around an attractive south court. The entrance is unusually attractive, being in tile, terra cotta and marble. The well-lighted lobby is handsomely finished in hardwoods and contains a pipe organ, a feature that is unique among Los Angeles apartment-houses. The building contains 120 rooms, all richly furnished. The street fronts of the structure are faced with gray pressed brick, the trim being of white stone.

Pellissier Square

For particular persons desiring exclusive location at moderate price. This superb offering is located in the heart of the built-up part of fashionable Wilshire, the best residential section in Los Angeles. The development all around Pellissier Square would fully justify us in asking considerably higher prices, but we are satisfied with the policy of "quick sales at moderate prices." Investors get the benefit, but, like all genuine opportunities, this one requires quick action.

Long-time ownership and now subdivision of this property by one family eliminates the profits of several middlemen. Our opening prices will give you a profit at the start of practically $30 per front foot. Ask us about this extraordinary condition. Pellissier Square will have modern improvements, including special features such as wire conduits, storm drains, ornamental electroliners and Cocos Plumous palms. Fine soil for lawns. LAKEVIEW Irrigated Farms

IS WEALTH
THERE IS AN ABUNDANCE
HERE

In the Valley of Southern California

$200 Per Acre - With Perpetual Water

Deed and Certificate of Title With First Payment

LAKEVIEW IRRIGATED FARMS are just twenty miles south of Riverside, in the Perris-Lakeview-Hemet Valley. This is the famous 6500-acre Neuvo Ranch and one of the last large cultivated ranches in Southern California that will be subdivided into farms. The entire ranch is bounded on the east by mountains and has a gentle slope to the bottom of the valley.

Buy Now and Take Advantage of This Situation

—This Will Be My Price for Only a Short Time

I REALIZE that I must make concessions to my first buyers—therefore I am going to offer for the next few months the best land at this price.

REMEMBER—that $200.00 per acre with perpetual water right will be my price only for a short time. When I have sold a limited amount of land at this figure, I am going to raise the price to $250.00 per acre, then to $300.00 per acre and higher later, for the natural conditions will warrant my doing this.

I have found in my past experience that it is compulsory to concede a great deal in selling the first few farms in a new subdivision. That is why I am making this exceptional offer.

—Your Income Will Be Equal to That of the Income of Improved Farms Now Selling at From $300.00 to $1200.00 per Acre

—Similar Land in Southern California Is Now Worth From $300.00 to $1200.00 per Acre

YOU who went into Whittier, Pomona, Anaheim, Orange, Fullerton and Santa Ana ten years ago and bought land at from $200.00 to $300.00 per acre, can readily sell today at from $800.00 to $1200.00 per acre and go only a few miles east to this territory and repeat your own experience.

I know wherever I speak and I consistently tell you that this land at $200.00 per acre with a perpetual water right is positively the most attractive farm land purchase in the entire valley of Southern California.

The same conditions exist here now that existed ten years ago in Anaheim and Whittier, and it will be only a matter of a few years when this land will be equal in value to the farms in that section.

I am not only interested in selling this land to you, but am desirous of making it profitable for you.

year, your income will be between $750 and $250 per acre—approximately 100 per cent.

I have spent twelve months studying conditions in this valley, and I am giving you these statistics with a great deal of certainty.

—From a Health Standpoint

THERE is no spot in all Southern California that is so perfect as the upper lands in this beautiful valley for your health—and all to a home place—it is picturesque and ideal.

Write for my booklet, maps and literature fully illustrating and describing LAKEVIEW IRRIGATED FARMS—and remember—I allow no misrepresentations either by my salesmen or in my literature.

I merely want to interest you—I want the land, itself, to convince you.

Come to my office and I will explain conditions existing in the LAKEVIEW IRRIGATED FARMS; let me show you photographs of every spot in the valley; and also beautiful stereoscopic pictures which I have had taken by the new modern process of photograph in color. You will be able to decide readily whether or not this is the kind of land you are seeking.

NO MATTER whether you are experienced in the raising of WALKERS, AFRIQOTS, PEACHER, HERRIES, VEGETABLES, ALPACAS OR DAIRY AND POULTRY PRODUCTS, you can still follow farming of this nature on the Lakeview Irrigated Farms.

Some of my lower lands are adobe, and I will not hesitate in saying that in spots there are traces of alkali—but the upper land which I am now offering is of the finest disintegrated granite and sandy loam found in Southern California. This character of soil runs from 50 feet to 150 feet in depth and is ideal for the raising any of the above-mentioned products.

The water is piped to the highest point of each parcel in underground steel and concrete pipes.

The placing on the market of the LAKEVIEW IRRIGATED FARMS is an enormous undertaking, and if I am able to make money for my first buyers, it will be a much easier task for me to sell the greater portion of this subdivision later, at higher prices.

Therefore—I am going to furnish my buyers with expert information in regard to improving their farms, and I know, after careful investigation, that at the end of five

DISCOVERY OF THE PACIFIC BY BALBOA.

BY H. O. STECHMAN,

Author of "Balboa."

VASCO NUNEZ DE BALBOA will be the patron saint of San Francisco's exposition in 1915 for celebrating the completion of the Panama Canal, as Christopher Columbus was the inspiration of Chicago's world fair in 1893. Since he discovered the Pacific Ocean, everything on this West Coast dates back to Balboa and Uncle Sam has recognized that fact by putting his picture on the green one-cent postage stamp of the special exposition series. For thousands of years the Atlantic Ocean has been known; yet it is only a comparatively short time since Balboa showed the way to the Pacific. Notwithstanding, the people, generally, know little of the discoverer or the events leading up to his great achievement. Hence, a short account of them is given herewith by H. O. Stechman, the author of "Balboa," a historic pageant play which is to be one of the featured productions at the forthcoming San Francisco exposition, under the direction of H. M. Horkheimer. As the discovery of the Pacific marked an important turning point in American history, the following resume is of particular interest at this time, when all eyes are focused on the western sea.

Though not generally known, September 25 is one of the big red-letter days in the world's history; for, on that date, in the year 1513, Vasco Nunez de Balboa discovered the Pacific Ocean. Hence, next Thursday marks the 400th anniversary of this achievement which, in historical importance, ranks second only to the discovery of America itself by Christopher Columbus, a score of years earlier. But, strange to relate, Balboa—the greatest, as well as notably the most humane, of all the Spanish conquistadores whose adventure and the promise of gold lured to this western hemisphere, after the Genoese admiral had shown the way over—has been all but forgotten.

With the approaching completion of the Panama Canal, which will wed the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, almost along the same trail that the intrepid Balboa first broke, it is desirable to take a glance backward and review briefly the beginning of the white man's activities in the canal zone and the events that culminated in the uncovering of the matchless western sea. Few adventures in all history were ever fraught with more peril and hardships and yet so highly spectacular and romantic as the exploits of this man Balboa. To him nothing seemed impossible, and he never dignified discouragement with recognition.

For some reason the life and deeds of Balboa have not attracted many writers, though they team with thrilling material. Washington Irving, sometimes designated "the father of American history," remarked of the checked fortunes of this explorer that, one day, his fate would furnish a theme of wonderful interest for a poem or a stirring drama. Hence, my inspiration, and I hope it is not asking too much that we turn aside today for a short summary of the stirring life of him who led the way to these shores now studded with many thriving cities, looking out across that mighty ocean-sea which promises to become the theater of tomorrow's greatest development.

Vasco Nunez de Balboa was born in Xeres de los Caballeros, in the province of Badajoz, in Southwest Spain. Although the exact date has been lost, the most authorities agree it was in 1474, just eighteen years before the discovery of America. He was of a noble but impoverished family.

When Rodrigo de Bastidas called from Cadiz in 1500 on a voyage of discovery to the New World, Vasco Nunez accompanied. For a year the party coasted along South and Central America. This expedition proved a failure and broke up shortly thereafter at Santo Domingo. Thrown on his own resources, Balboa decided to follow agriculture. As a former soldier he availed himself of the privilege of taking up a "repatriamento" consisting of a parcel of land and a quota of natives to work it, practically as slaves. Having no business talent, the soldier-planter found himself completely involved in debt after a few years. Then the bucolic life palled on him and he longed once more for the fray, adventure and excitement.

About this time two expeditions were authorized to depart for Spanish Main, as they called the mainland of the New World, to distinguish it from the islands. The respective leaders were Alonso de Ojeda and Diego de Nicuesa, both of whom having served with distinction against the Moors, had now become knights-errant of the seas. The latter made a deal with the Bachiller Fernandez Enciclopedia, who had accumulated a fortune in the practice of law, to fit out a ship and follow later.

To the thrifty Enciclopedia, the possible profits appealed, and he invested his savings in a caravel, delaying his departure until the spring of 1513. Just at that time, the bankrupt Balboa happened into Santo Domingo and, in the vernacular of the present, the expedition "hooked good to him." But, unfortunately, the law prohibited debtors from leaving the jurisdiction of their indebtedness. However, his creditors were the least of Balboa's worries. Swashbuckler though he was, there was a capacity for cunning in his make-up as he proved by eluding those he owed.

For a chance to recoup his shattered fortunes, Balboa had to get away from the island. So he concealed himself in a large cask which he loaded with provisions for the voyage. Then, when the vessel had left the land and the armed escort accompanied him to sea, he hid behind the cask and emerged from the cask like an apparition. The Bachiller was incensed and threatened to land him on the first uninhabited island. But Balboa was favorably known to many of the adventurers aboard and they took his part as against the petty-fogger, Enciclopedia, who never had been a military man.

As one of the historians says "God had reserved Balboa for higher things." So, the leader was permitted to overrule his creditors, but only after due threats had been made. Balboa never forgot Enciclopedia's first impulse to make short shrift of him, and he never forgot the debt he owed to the Bachiller for his escape. Henceforth, he was known to his companions as "El Hombre del Casko"—the man of the cask.

As the expedition drifted about aimlessly for a year without finding a trace of Ojeda, the Bachiller became disgusted for he knew not whether to turn back or to press forward. Vasco Nunez de Balboa stepped forth. He told of having been in that same locality with Bastidas some years before and that he remembered a well-favored spot on the banks of a river called "Darior" by the natives. The surrounding country was fertile and gold mines were said to be nearby. Best of all, he said there did not fight with people.

For this encouraging information, his companions hailed the aboriginal as a Moses and they followed him to the spot. In due time, they arrived at just such a spot as Balboa had described and after overcoming the natives, they moved into the deserted village and christened it Santa Maria de la Antigua del Darien, in accordance with the Bachiller's previously made vow. The name was larger than the town and so it was called Antigua for short.

Fifty thousand dollars worth of booty was captured besides important stores of food. Enciclopedia immediately began to feel like a Spanish lord again and in setting up a civil government, in which he assumed the office of alcaide mayor, he treated the natives with the most brutal and unscrupulous treatment. He was a cruel and unscrupulous man, and he was a cruel and unscrupulous man.

Why do you quarrel about such trash as this? he demanded of the peaceful natives of the gold and pearls in all directions. "Why do you quarrel about such trash as this? he demanded of the peaceful natives of the gold and pearls in all directions."

Gold to gratify their wishes to the utmost! Never was there sweeter promise to the ears of any crew of men. Balboa, the eldest of Comagre's seven sons, and a high-minded seafarer, was disgusted by this sordid brawl. Leaping forward, he knocked over the scales, scattering the gold and pearls in all directions.

With the dawn of the following day Balboa set out again. It was a severe test for his wayward men. Just before reaching the peak, the leader commanded them to halt that he might make the final ascent alone and be the first to see what lay beyond. It was then 10 o'clock in the morning of September 15, 1513, as with palpitantly expectant heart, Balboa scaled the bare, bald crest and, on toppling at the long-desired prospect burst full upon his view. Like the unfolding of a new world, hitherto shut out by this mountain wall, it spread out before him. First, there was a chaos of rock, lower down, verdure, and beyond shimmered the placid waters of a limitless sea. In the far foreground sunlight.

Vasco Nunez de Balboa sank to his knees and thanked God for better the first European permitted to open the way to this wonderful ocean. Then, as the poet said, shading his eyes he "Dipt into the future far as human eye could see."

"Baw visions of the world and all the wonders that would be." Calling down to his men waiting behind, they scrambled up breathlessly, and each one dropped down reverently as their leader had, on glimpsing the matchless panorama.

Immediately the decent to the water's edge was undertaken. Attainable, the Spaniards rushed in impetuosity and laved their tired limbs gratefully. Scooping up handfuls of earth, they were overcome to find it salty. Hence, it was really an ocean and not an inland sea. Being a banner on which were painted the royal arms and the arms of Leon and Castile, Balboa triumphantly marched into the water knee-deep, and with a flourish of his sword took possession of everything therein and bordering thereon in the names of the sovereigns of Castile, Leon and Aragon, according to the elaborate Spanish formula. In wonderment the natives looked on from the neighboring hillsides. This ceremony was a singular combination of chivalry and religion, and formed a picture strangely characteristic of the people and the times.

Thus, in a brief 400 years, was discovered the Pacific ocean, called for the time "El Mar del Sur"—the South Sea. Not long after the return march to Antigua was begun, a messenger having been sent on ahead to spread the news and carry it to Spain. Here was the hope of Balboa, for he was dreading the royal forgiveness. But crafty enemies like Enciclopedia are not to be shaken off so easily, and, in the fact, that time he emerged from the cask. But the colony was not without its faction. Soon, Nicuesa appeared among them and claimed the right to govern, under royal patent granting him authority over that locality. But lacking that, he speedily made himself obnoxious and was driven away. Then the colonists banished him, too. Of all, Vasco Nunez seemed the best fitted to guide them, since he possessed the sort of valor that dangled such a band of congenial hothouse and he won their loyalty with kindness and courtesy.

Directly Enciclopedia set out for Spain to complain of Balboa's usurpation. The same ship carried Martin Zamudio as representative of the alleged usurper. Balboa foresaw that a lawyer like Enciclopedia would undoubtedly be able to plead his cause effectively at court; but he also realized that if he could accomplish some big feat and win a handsome fortune to send back to his royal master, he still held the whip hand, since deeds and money are more convincing arguments than mere words and promises.

Without losing time, Balboa started on his journey. He was a man of great energy and he was a man of great energy. He was a man of great energy and he was a man of great energy. He was a man of great energy and he was a man of great energy.

Returning to Darien, to prepare for the important venture, he sent an appeal to Diego Columbus, Governor of Santo Domingo, for additional men, not forgetting to send him a goodly amount of gold. Then, while waiting for these reinforcements, private word came from Zamudio that the Bachiller Enciclopedia had succeeded in raising the king's indignation against Balboa and that he would be summoned to Spain immediately to answer criminal charges.

Enciclopedia, who was a man of great energy and he was a man of great energy. He was a man of great energy and he was a man of great energy. He was a man of great energy and he was a man of great energy.

Enciclopedia, who was a man of great energy and he was a man of great energy. He was a man of great energy and he was a man of great energy. He was a man of great energy and he was a man of great energy.

Overhauling Chief Ely's Premise.

the home team. This is the second heroic act of the kind committed by Howard this season.

In the ninth Mr. Down, sometimes known as "Jumbo" Jerry, muffed an easy fly by Howard, and a run came in when Ellis and Page came to the front with singles.

San Francisco took a flying start with one run in the first. There was a vein of wildness running through Gregory's performance, which capped out right at the start. He misreaded Mundorf, the first party to face him.

McCardle forced his mate with a grounder to Howard. Johnson popped to Goodwin, who caught the ball. Almost forgot to mention the all-important fact, that Johnson, by stealing third in the ninth, reached the 100 mark for the season. Schaller slaved a single to right, and McCardle took second. He scored when Down dropped a one-bagger in center. Schaller took third on the blow, and sought to take the plate on a double steal. There was a perfect exchange of throws between Arbores and Page, and Mr. Schaller was no more.

CITY OWNS A HOSPITAL FOR DISEASED MACHINES.

Municipal Garage and Shops on Pasadena Avenue Make Repairs on All the City's Motor-Driven Apparatus from 2 1/2-Horse-Power Motorbikes to 150-Horse-Power Fire Engines.

BY W. M. HENRY.

ONE of the best evidences of the growth of Los Angeles is the big municipal garage and machine shop recently erected next to the engine-house at Avenue 13 and Pasadena Avenue.

In 1904, when the water tower was built by two engineers from San Francisco in the old fire-engine machine shop back of Engine Company No. 4 on Aliso street, Mr. Price, one of the engineers, remained in Los Angeles and was put in charge of the shop.

The immense growth of the work of the shop necessitated an enlargement and so somebody had the brilliant idea of building a large, well-equipped garage and shop that should handle not only the repairs to the old horse-driven vehicles, but also the work on the city automobiles.

GREAT REPOOD. On July 1 Price was put in charge of the garage and shop on Pasadena Avenue, and since that time $16 jobs of all kinds, ranging from repairs to little 2 1/2-horse-power motorbikes to tearing out the transmission on a huge 150-horse-power Graham fire truck have been made.

Los Angeles has a tremendous number of automobiles in the city service and all of these get their repairs at the municipal shops. The fire department comes in for the larger part of the repair work and the police department next.

Foreman Christie of the shops attributes the large amount of work for the fire-department machines in a large measure due to the fact that the big fire trucks are driven by men who are not the best of chauffeurs. This, combined with the fact that the machines are tremendously heavy and are driven at a furious speed, results in a great deal of injury of a greater or lesser degree to the big apparatus.

MANY MACHINES. Altogether the city owns six of the big Graham pumps, ranging in power from 90 to 150-horse; two big trucks and something like a dozen combination wagons, all driven by motors. These, with the ambulances and hurry-up wagons of the police, get much strenuous usage that the mechanical force do on the job all of the time.

An example of the work that has to be done by the mechanics is found in a big truck with a 50-horse-power, air-cooled motor, which heated up in no time and refused to run. It was brought to the shops and the mechanics discovered that at the factory the exhaust valves had been put on the intake side and the whole engine had to be readjusted.

During the past week a big Graham pump with a 150-horse-power, six-cylinder engine developed a dislocated transmission and the shop mechanics tore out the whole transmission and put a new one in its place.

TRIALS OF A TRUCK. The sputtering motorcycles of the speed cops are frequent patients, as are the machines of the other various departments. One queer patient is the huge Moore truck belonging to the park department, which made a trip way up into the hills to get a couple of buffaloes.

It was an exciting trip. To begin with, one of the buffalo bulls got perched on the truck, nearly dashing out his brains on the radiator and splashing blood all over it. Then the road was so poor and the cargo so top-heavy that the driver was forced to go ahead a few feet and then stop until his truck quit swaying. As a result of the rough usage the truck is being fitted with a complete set of new tires and is also getting a complete overhauling.

At the present time there are about forty men employed in the shops and practically everything is done there, painting and wheeling being about the only missing links. If the municipal garage and shop turns out to be a success the city fathers contemplate enlarging the plant until it will be able to take care of all of the city rolling stock.

MUNICIPAL SHOP. The Common Council of Superior, Wis., has instructed the City Engineer to prepare plans and estimates for a municipal machine shop for general city construction and repair work, but more especially for the purpose of the fire department. It is the intention of Chief A. T. Johnson, who suggested the municipal shop plan, to rebuild horse-drawn fire apparatus into motor-propelled equipment, and the shop will be provided with machine and tool equipment.

Chadbourne Messes Up Drive by Carlisle.

Bill Rodgers Gets a New Home Run.

(BY HEART WITH THE TIGERS.)

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 20.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Batteries behind the Beavers today just when victory seemed the one last best hope.

Portland went into the ninth a two to four favorite and then another scene of wildest excitement. Veneta staged a garrison finish scoring four runs in the last inning off Higginbotham and James and winning out 8 to 4.

McCreedy's machine scored a "walk" in what has been considered its strongest section—in the box and in the middle field. Not only in the fighting Tigers scored Higginbotham from the mound but they kept on changing Big Bill James.

And that wasn't all.

WHY, CHESTER!

Chet Chadbourne obligingly inserted a misfire in the midst of the uproar and before Chad could go back to the fence and relay Carlisle's single in to his compatriots, three men, including Carlisle, had gone across the plate.

Chad tried to take Carlisle's line drive on the dead run, hoping to shut off McDermott at the plate with the winning run, and the ball got by him. Chadbourne doesn't founder often in his illustrious campaigning but he had an off day all around today. Incidentally Chad failed to secure a hit and broke up his record-smashing series of 21 consecutive games of hitting.

Happy Hogan enjoyed a great hit.

BIG PRIZE FOR PHOENIX RACE.

Will Probably Reach Ten Thousand Dollars.

Five Cars Are Already in the Big Event.

To Make Trip by San Diego Coast Route.

That the cash prize for the Los Angeles-to-Phoenix race will reach a total of $10,000 is now almost an assured thing. According to Chairman Shattler $4000 of that amount has already been subscribed, although the official entry blanks for the annual road race have not yet been issued. The blanks will be issued within the next few days.

Five cars have entered already and many others are expected. The first machine to traverse the course will be the Cadillac, entered by Charles Soules, who finished second in the race last year. Soules' car is known as Cadillac No. 1, and in company with Joseph Brown and "Speed" Connolly in a second Cadillac, Soules will drive through to Phoenix this week.

START EARLY.
The Cadillacs will leave Los Angeles at 5 o'clock in the morning and make Yuma their first stop. The going from Los Angeles to San Diego and over the mountains should be easy, but a number of washouts are reported in the desert country, and as the wind is constantly shifting the two cars will probably have to break their way through the sand.

The Fair Association in Phoenix, and George Duryea Ballard are busy arranging for the track events in Phoenix. Large cash prizes will be offered for these events.

THE PLANS.
According to present plans, the first racing car will be sent away a few minutes after 5 o'clock the morning of November 3, at two-minute intervals the remaining cars will be given the count, and the 1913 automobile marathon to the capital city of Arizona will be on.

The city of San Diego has been given a place on the official stationery of the race promoters, and the event will be called the Los Angeles-Phoenix-San Diego Exposition Road Race.

The route will include the southern city and with this change there will be only one race to Phoenix, as the San Diego-to-Phoenix race held last year will not be repeated, but the two races will be combined in the one grand classic.

THE HILLY STUFF.
From San Diego the cars will hit the hills and the desert, with Yuma as their objective point. The night race will be located at Yuma, as in previous years. All of the cars will be checked in at this point and on the following morning will be sent away on the last stretch of the long endurance grind.

The cars as they are entered, will be given the number which they will carry during the race, and they will be started in the order of their entry.

Owing to the enthusiastic following in which all the cities interested in the event are joining, the 1913 race promises to be the greatest ever held.

It is a wise idea to stand with a car that has ALWAYS been a success—a car that has set the standard for the motor car industry.

SALESMEN RAVE OVER NEW BUICK.

The first samples of the 1914 model thirty-five-horse-power Buicks arrived in town on Wednesday and the entire staff spent the whole day sitting around and admiring the little monster and touring car. The most apparent change from the 1913 model is that in the hood, which is now rounded on top. The little roadster is finished in blue and is a beauty.

DRINK UP YOUNG OCEAN.

On one day of the recent warm waves the office employees at the Studebaker Corporation's Plant No. 1 in Detroit drank the contents of thirty-eight six-gallon bottles of distilled water.

The first car entered in the Phoenix road race. The Cadillac racer that was wrecked on the Motorama in practice last August is now being rebuilt and has already been entered in the Los Angeles-to-Phoenix race. C. E. Soules and his mechanic, A. G. Morris.

New Idea.

STEVENS-DURYEA TOPS ALL FITTED TO ORDER.

IF YOU ever went through a body department of an automobile plant you probably noticed that in fitting the tops there was a so-called model or "master body" on which each top is fitted, as a dressmaker fits a garment to a model.

In other words, top fitting is defined by other motor car builders in analogous in meaning to a ready-made clothing manufacturer's practice of fitting a certain size garment to a definite form and fashioning all garments bearing that size label on a specific model. This is why we see a collar of a coat worn by a man with a long neck purchasing that size garment sagging ridiculously out of line, or why the sleeve-length is too long for another man wearing that size.

The individual deviation from a standard cannot be compensated for in any ready-made method of fitting a garment or an automobile top. It is true that the bodies may be built on the same model to exact measures, but when the top is fitted the slight deviation in its measurements will bring about slight displacement of the body and the top which develop into wrinkles or sagging or warping of the top at some point.

In the Stevens-Duryea body plant they hand-fitter each top to its own body. There is no such thing as a model to which all tops are fitted; each individual body is its own model for its special top. This process positively prevents the slightest variation in the uniformity of fit of the top. It can be said without contradiction that the Stevens-Duryea plant stands alone of all body-fitting plants in this country in its definition of how to fit a top properly to a motor car.

Who Makes the Auburn and Who Sells It

This is the year, Mr. Buyer, for you to be more cautious than ever. This is the year to investigate the CAR, the MANUFACTURER and the AGENT. The Auburn Automobile Company of Auburn, Indiana, have made cars for the past thirteen years and are as sound financially as the Bank of England—own their own plant and the many acres of ground which it covers—manufacture cars on a profitable basis each year and aim to build an honest well-made car, giving you more for your money than you can buy elsewhere.

ANOTHER THING, you cannot afford to overlook the AGENCY. This is our fifth year selling Auburn cars, every one of which has been successful and profitable. Why? Because we have sold a good car and have cared for our customers, with a service department such as no other agency in Los Angeles can boast of, a complete factory equipment and the best of mechanics for the care and adjustments of our customers. When you meet an Auburn owner he will take time from anything to tell you about his car, his service, and he has a smile that won't come off.

WOMEN LIKE THE FR

Pick Out the Cars Color Suits Them

Like to Have Feminine tails in Cars.

And the Manufacturer Them In.

BY BONNIE GLENN

No matter how much a woman is interested in the automobile, it is the color scheme in automobiles that holds her attention. It is the feminine details that are where one of the fairer sex is the deciding voice.

Women, with their ever-widening knowledge of the possibilities of magnetism and the other hand, are not only interested in the color scheme, but given two cars of equal value to choose from, they will choose the one with the color scheme in favor of the car. The feminine details in the car are where one of the fairer sex is the deciding voice.

MANUFACTURERS WISE. That the automobile manufacturer is wise in the color scheme in automobiles is shown in the feminine details that have been in the electric, the limousine, the coupe—the cars built especially for women.

Just how much the Ohio Motor Company counted on the previous when they designed their model M cannot be said, but this is certain: the design of Vienne is admirably suited to the feminine taste. The car is a model of convenience, and the low slung body is a close study of the feminine figure. The car is a model of convenience, and the low slung body is a close study of the feminine figure.

DOUBLE CONTROL. The newest feature of the Auburn electric car is the double control which their model "E" is fitted with. The control makes it possible for the driver to face forward while the passengers to face forward. The car is to be driven from the front seat. Greater foot room is provided by the controller arrangement. When the car is driven from the rear the front control locks automatically, and thus a very necessary feature is placed on the car. The electric also is fitted with a double control.

THE SIMPLEX. Appealing to the feminine taste, the 1914 Auburn electric car is the double control which their model "E" is fitted with. The control makes it possible for the driver to face forward while the passengers to face forward. The car is to be driven from the front seat. Greater foot room is provided by the controller arrangement. When the car is driven from the rear the front control locks automatically, and thus a very necessary feature is placed on the car. The electric also is fitted with a double control.

Another interesting car, and one that has become very popular with drivers, is the Cadillac coupe. It is a graceful, enclosed car, fitted with a self-starter, electric lights, and upholstered in broadcloth. Of course, greater speed is given with a gas car than with an electric, but for the average driver the speed which is now possible with an electric is sufficient.

When you see it, after all, just of feminine taste as to which car to buy, the color scheme is the deciding factor, and so it really is a matter of color and trim in the car that heart are ever women.

MALLIWELL LOOKS FOR A BIG SEASON

Mr. Malliwell has left for a two-month tour through the northwest coast, representing the Knight Automobile Company.

At the north the two will be the Malliwell branch stores in Seattle, Vancouver, Boise and Portland. Where Knight three have been established during the last few months.

Looking on the boat for San Francisco, Mr. Malliwell stated: "The business will be my opinion, be the brightest for the automobile dealer on the Pacific coast. Business with us has been wonderfully during the last few months, and we anticipate a very successful season of business."

Of Course.

WOMEN LIKE

BY BONNIE GLESSNER.

How much a woman may like the contrary, it's the frills and feminine details in automobiles that hold her attention. It's the feminine details that sell where one of the fair sex has a voice.

With her ever-widening car, she has the most complete possible of magnetos and the other hundred and one parts of an automobile's make-up, but given two cars with equal value to choose from, she will choose the one that is in favor of the car whose harmonies with her gown has the most melodious

MANUFACTURERS WISE.

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD CAR STILL RUNS.

In Doylestown, Pa., there is a Peerless four cylinder of the 1911 model which is operated by John Wintzen as a livery car. It has been on the job for seven years, and it is still on it—very much on it, Mr. Wintzen says. He has had much experience with motor cars and he knows a good one when he sees it. This is what he says about this 1911 model:

"We can go anywhere with it on the fourth speed and there is no knocking nor any noise in it. I have not had a valve out or ground one in four years. In all that time there has never been a wrench inside the crank case. I have plenty of power. This car is out every day and often part of the night.

"I've never had to get off the seat and fuss with the motor on the road in four years. Some months ago, I took a boy to the Samaritan Hospital in Philadelphia thirty-three miles away and I made the run in forty-four minutes. Now if you have a 1911 motor that can beat this record I'd like to hear about it. This car has carried No. 1 Pennsylvania license tag ever since the law went into effect.

"I started August 1, 1911, with a 1911 Peerless '31-31' and drove it to Boston and back again. We covered 1166 miles and I never raised the hood or opened the tool box. We were gone twelve days through Pennsylvania, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. This car has covered 4212 miles up to this time—and I have never had to raise the hood on the road yet."

VETERAN TIRE EXPERT.
During five years of uninterrupted service, George Benninger, foreman of the tire-mounting and repair department at one of the Studebaker plants in Detroit, has mounted on wheels and rims a quarter of a million automobile tires. He has a record of mounting with his own hands 219 tires during one working day.

REGULATING PRICE.
Automobilists and other users of gasoline in Texas, as well as State authorities, are watching with interest the efforts being made by the Corporation Commission of Oklahoma to regulate the price of the commodity in that State. It is claimed by Atty.-Gen. Leoney, of Texas, that the manufacturers and sellers of petroleum products in that State discriminate against home consumers in the matter of prices. In Oklahoma the situation is even worse, as is shown by investigation. In some towns gasoline is sold as low as 12 1/2 cents per gallon; in others the price is 18 cents, and in the extreme western part it is as high as 20 cents.

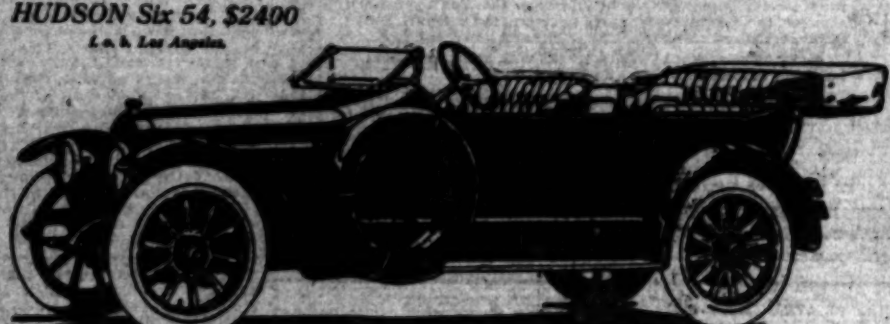

RUSSIAN SALES.
At the automobile show recently held at St. Petersburg, Russia, there were sold, according to official information, 400 motor boats out of the 500 which were exhibited, 400 automobiles, fifty motor trucks, and forty-five agricultural tractors. In addition, orders for 300 automobiles which could not be delivered on the spot, were placed with exhibitors. The total amount of business done reached about 4,000,000 rubles or $2,000,000.

HUDSON Six 54, $2400
L. & L. Los Angeles

Ask Any Six Owner
If He Would Go Back to a Four

HE would soon go back to cinders after using electric lights. Vibration disappears when you ride in a Six. Rough roads and smooth hills and valleys, ruts and asphalt are alike to the six-cylinder motor. Jerks and jars no longer annoy and fatigue. Bumps are gone. You glide instead of bouncing.

Lasting Value of HUDSON Six 54
BECAUSE it is a six-cylinder car, and equipped with the wanted streamline body, the HUDSON Six 54 is a good investment.

It will give you all you can desire of motor satisfaction. And will retain a used-car value sufficient to hold your annual motor-car outlay at a low figure.

For bear in mind that depreciation in selling value of your car is more important to consider than even tire and gasoline expense.

Remember that a popular, stylish car is easy to turn into money. And that no buyer will pay for a "back number."

The Distinctive Car of the Year
THE HUDSON Six 54 is the distinctive car of the year.

It is a six-cylinder car, with four-speed transmission, left side drive, right-hand (center) control, gasoline tank in dash, electrically lighted and started.

Disappearing seats provide for carrying four, five, six or seven passengers, yet the car is compact and light in weight.

It has 135-inch wheel-base, 36x4 1/2-inch tires, and all approved conveniences and luxuries.

Many have called it the handsomest automobile they ever saw.

So flexible is its six-cylinder motor that it runs steadily and smoothly at the pace of a man's walk on high gear in congested traffic, yet jumps to express train speed at a touch of the accelerator pedal.

So easy is its control that a child may drive it.

And because of its simplicity and convenience many women prefer it to the electric car.

Football Practice
Starts in West.GAME WILL BE MORE OPEN THAN EVER.

Minnesota, Chicago or Wisconsin seem likely candidates for the title of Conference Champion. Iowa will lose her Big Tackle, Kirk, this year—Yost Plans Play.

(BY A. F. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES)
CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Preparing for a campaign of football more open than any since the introduction of the "reform" rules, coaches and players at nearly all the leading institutions of the central States today formally began their practice. A rule of the western conference forbids real practice until the twentieth and many schools not in the "big nine" follow this law, but when the mentor assumed charge today they found in many cases that prospective candidates already had loosened joints used in punting.

The season promises to equal in interest that of last year in this section of the country. The title of conference champion, which generally carries with it the championship west of the Alleghenies, probably will be decided only after a hard series of games likely to go to Minnesota, Chicago or Wisconsin, with the Badgers through the prestige of their victorious career of 1917 and through the return of more than a dozen of last year's varsity squad, considered favorites.

Turnouts that Kirk, the big Iowa tackle, will not report this year, are worrying the Hawkeye coaches. His non-appearance will force Coach Hawkey not only to find a first-class lineman but also to develop a punter.

for Kirk was depended upon to do the kicking for Iowa.

Inter-sectional games this year are important if Michigan's contents with eastern colleges can be called inter-sectional. Michigan's big game is with Pennsylvania and Coach Toot is already planning particular plays for the Quakers.

St. Louis University has an important inter-sectional game with Syracuse on Thanksgiving Day. Coach Denny has had men at work for nearly a week.

Notre Dame's fast team will play the West Point cadets November 15. Fast card is on the program at Lincoln, where Coach Stibben has fourteen weeks to prepare for the Minnesota game October 12, the first contest.

Mrs. Emma La. Burge suggests that mad dogs be turned loose in the chambers of the Board of Supervisors so as to make them pass a muzzling law. The lady is too hard on the brutes. No canine, sane or otherwise, would risk certain death by biting an Alderman.

FRANCIS OUMET DEFEATS ENGLISH PROFESSIONALS.

*Ex-Caddy and Present Champion of Massachusetts Plays Even With Vardon and Ray on the Way Out, but Leaves Them Five Strokes Behind Coming Back.
Gallery Waves Enthusiastic.*

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

BROOKLINE (Mass.) Sept. 20.—Francis Oumet, a schoolboy amateur of Brookline, won today the highest honors in the country, in fact in the world, by defeating Harry Vardon and Edward Ray, the English professionals, by five and six strokes respectively, in the play-off for the American open championship today.

The victory of the boy carried with it a gold medal and the custody of the championship by his home institution, the Woodland Golf Club of Newton.

No amateur in this country and only one abroad has ever gained such going honors. There were few of the 5000 persons following the play who felt at the start that the youth could possibly vanquish such renowned veterans as the two former British champions.

In order to win Oumet was obliged to play the best golf of the week. When he had accomplished the first sixteen holes in 45 strokes and made the seventeenth in a wonderful three, Vardon, his closest opponent, broke under the strain.

Oumet did not get into the lead until the turn for the home holes. All three made the half-way mark in even 38. But after that he was never headed.

Enthusiastic followers carried the water on their shoulders to the clubhouse, where Secretary John Reid Jr., of the United States Golf Association, made the presentation speech. Vardon received 1170 and Ray 1160 for second and third prizes. The final score was Oumet, 72; Vardon, 77; Ray, 73.

Both Oumet and Vardon were of the opinion that the play was one of the best they had ever seen. Vardon said that he had never seen a better play than that of Oumet.

After the play Oumet was asked to sign a check for $1000, which he did. He will receive the gold medal and the custody of the championship by his home institution, the Woodland Golf Club of Newton.

Oumet's victory was a great surprise to all who were present. He is a schoolboy of 17 years of age and has never before won a championship of any kind.

NATIONAL COMMISSION AMENDS OPTIONAL RULE.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CINCINNATI, Sept. 20.—The National Baseball Commission announced today that the rule of the commission respecting the condition under which an optional agreement will be approved and validated had been amended by the addition of the following paragraph:

A purchased major league player who has participated in a game and been regularly waived on, may be released before September 15 of the year of his execution under an optional agreement, notwithstanding on August 15 of the following year. Such player shall, however, be subject to draft in the year of his release regardless of the approved optional agreement.

The commission also construed the rule relating to the number of players on a major club league to mean that the club will not be required to include in its list the name of any player who is so incapacitated by injury or illness that he is unable to render service and whose condition is such that his athletic ability is questionable. Such player shall be regarded as "disabled" and shall not count in his team's limit.

The commission also handed down a finding in which it allowed the claim of the Pittsburgh club for $151 against the Wheeling Exhibition Company operating the Wheeling club of the Central League as reimbursement for money paid in 1912 on account and at the request of the Wheeling club to Manager William Phillips and for salary paid to Player Island.

BIG LEAGUE BATTERS.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Cobb of Detroit with an average of .385; Jackson of Cleveland, with .374, and Speaker of Boston, with .373, are leading the batting list in the American League. Cobb's twelve-point lead and the approach of the season's end make his position in the batting list a very important one.

Next in order are: Eddie Collins, Philadelphia, .342; Lajoie, Cleveland, .340; Baker, Philadelphia, .333; McInnes, Philadelphia, .328; Gandil, Washington, .325; Broun, Detroit, .317; D. Murphy, Philadelphia, .315; Crawford, Detroit, .309; Williams, .306; Leffert, Cleveland, .304; Rivali, St. Louis, .303; and Schaefer, Washington, .301.

Milan of Washington now has sixty-five stolen bases and there is hardly a chance for any one to catch him, though Mosler of the same team has fifty-six.

Pitchers records in the American League show Johnson ahead as usual. The first six rank:

Johnson, Philadelphia, 1.00; Lajoie, Cleveland, 1.00; Baker, Philadelphia, 1.00; McInnes, Philadelphia, 1.00; Gandil, Washington, 1.00; Broun, Detroit, 1.00; D. Murphy, Philadelphia, 1.00; Crawford, Detroit, 1.00; Williams, 1.00; Leffert, Cleveland, 1.00; Rivali, St. Louis, 1.00; and Schaefer, Washington, 1.00.

John Daubert of Brooklyn has attained the honor of holding the top spot in the batting list among the National League batters. His percentage of .361 put him ahead of Earl Tinning, the Brooklyn pitcher who holds the average of .347. Heinie Zimmerman, champion batter last year, is slowly slipping, but is still in the top ten.

"Three hundred hitters" in the National in addition to Daubert and Tinning are:

R. Miller, Philadelphia, .342; Hyatt, Pittsburgh, .338; Crawford, Philadelphia, .333; Becker, Philadelphia, .332; Ross, Boston, .324; W. Loh, Philadelphia, .320; Voss, Pittsburgh, .315; Zimmerman, Chicago, .308; Tinn, Boston, .304; Wagner, Pittsburgh, .303; Gibson, Pittsburgh, .302; Loh, Philadelphia, .301; E. Miller, Brooklyn, .300; Zinn, Boston, .300; Wagner, St. Louis, .300; E. Miller, Philadelphia, .300; Meyer, New York, .300; Kling, Cincinnati, .300.

labelled after the ninth inning rally, but you can bet a nickel against a million that the strategy Yankee manager experienced one of the most disagreeable afternoons of his bright young life in the winning.

Portland not only pounded our old friend of the mound again in one inning under an avalanche of four runs, but they likewise put the skids under Roy Hill. In fact, Rogers pitched almost a quorum in the box score before the milling wound up.

Griffin relieved Hill in the eighth and as he gave way to a pinch hitter in the ninth, the pitcher was fished. Roll call, therefore, showed four of the eight in the line-up at sundown. Likewise, it looked like a foretell to Halaligh in the ninth when Speer and Rodgers started off with singles, but Halaligh tightened and 3000 fans fled silently from the sepiher.

KANE SHINES. Terrific swifter, Johnny Kane, Rodgers and Higginbotham featured. Kane answered three of the Tigers' nine hits; Rodgers and Higginbotham three apiece of eleven for the Mackmen.

Umpires Good and Guthrie umpired a good game of ball, but like the man who built the palace and forgot to put a bathroom in it, they made one mental blunder and it cost Bill Rodgers a home run and seventy-two packages of the weed that made Sir Walter Raleigh lose his head.

LOW-BROW STUFF. The umpires failed to note an inquisitive fan perched on the right field balcony and when Rodgers drove a home run up onto the runway, Dickerson, the umpire, called a "two-bit" spectator to touch the ball. Under ground rules Rodgers had to retract his steps to second base and so lost his home run.

This freaky seventh inning episode fortunately didn't affect the final result, for Rodgers scored a moment later on singles by Lindsey and Deane, but it gave the fans a lot to talk about.

FRANK CHANCE PICKS HIS NEXT YEAR'S TEAM.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Houston, Tex., will be the training grounds of the New York Americans next spring. Manager Frank Chance announced this yesterday and at the same time indicated the probable make-up of next season's team.

Chance is greatly pleased with the showing his club has made since Malet, Holden, Whitman and others came into the limelight. He declared that what he needed first of all was a fighting club and added that he now had one. As an indication of the spirit of the team he cited the example of Williams, who is now playing with a festered finger.

"He's game," said Chance. "He's a fighter and he will be my first baseman next year." Speaking of the further make-up of the team, the Yankee pilot continued:

"My second baseman will be Rolfe Zelder. Zelder is a grand ball player. This brings me to Malet, who will surely play third base. Even if he can hit only .340 I will take him on, because, if nothing happens, he will steal more bases in 1914 than Milan.

"In regard to shortstop I like Peckinpaugh and I think he will do to complete a fast infield which will help me to win half of the games next season. I like all these men because they are fast and have the fighting spirit. The outfield I have not decided upon. I fancy Whitman, Holden, Cook and Gilbreath."

Chance said that King Cole will make a great pitcher for him next year.

NEW ZEALAND RUGBY COMPOSED OF STARS.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

STANFORD, Sept. 20.—Rugby fans are expecting the arrival of the New Zealand All Blacks about October 2. This will be the first visit of the United States by the All Blacks since 1904. Before coming they will play a series of games against Australia in the home land.

The team has been selected by the New Zealand Rugby Union from the different rugby unions of the island, and will be managed by F. W. Mason of Otago University, and probably by A. McDonald, who was a member of the All Black team that toured the United States in 1903 and 1904.

Numbered among the members of the team are many friends of Danny Carroll, the Australian, playing with Stanford this year. Jimmy Wylie, a member of last year's Waratahs, will be with the coming team. Of the other men known personally by Carroll he has to say:

"E. Roberts of Wellington, is a son of Harry Roberts, a member of the famous 1884 All Blacks. F. Mitchellson has represented New Zealand since 1907, and is a powerful center three-quarters, quick to see his opportunities. Cuthill of the Otago University, made a reputation for himself this season in Sydney in the three-quarter line while playing with a picked team from the combined universities of New Zealand. Stohl is a wonderful place-kicker.

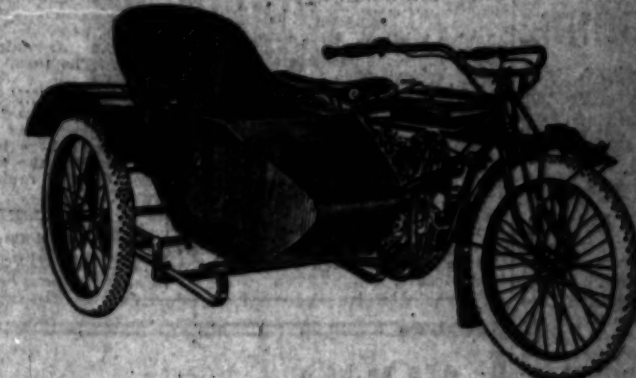

The lineup of the team is expected to be as follows. The names in the brackets are those of the Provincial Rugby Unions with which the player is affiliated: Forwards, M. Cain, H. Downes (Taranaki), G. Sellers, Downes (Auckland), T. W. Lynch, G. D. Gray, H. M. Taylor (Canterbury), J. E. Cuthill (Otago).

Cross-country running was paced on a firm foundation and given an added stimulus last night, when the Executive Committee decided: "That cross-country running be put on an interclass basis, classes having privileges of granting class sweaters for the first seven places provided fifteen men enter." Fifty men are working now in anticipation of the November meet and more will soon follow.

THE AGE OF SPECIALISTS

The modern way has done away with "all and mix" methods and the demand of the times for few things, but to do these few things better and quicker than any one else.

Health is precious and should not be tampered with by an unskilled workman. Therefore, specialization in treating disease is far more important than specializing in healing.

The physician who concentrates his efforts to treating only a limited number of diseases, develops skill and ability that can be acquired by the physician who scatters his efforts in treating almost everything. Doing the same thing over and over again develops the eye that is quick to see what is to be done and also the "touch" of healing that is quick to do it.

It is explained that about the worst name I am called upon to treat is "Jack-of-all-diseases." Instead of coming to me for the treatment he should have had the first place.

Piles, Fistula and Varicose Veins Cured in One Treatment. Specializing in only a few diseases develops the "touch" of healing that is quick to see what is to be done and also the "touch" of healing that is quick to do it.

Just think what it means to you. You have time and worry. You have few painful treatments and a permanent cure of the above troubles is effected without pain and with little or no detention from home or business.

CHRONIC DISEASES, PILES, FISTULA, ULCERATION AND ALL DISEASES OF THE RECTUM AND BOWEL, KIDNEY, BLADDER AND SKIN DISEASES, HERNIA (Rupture), VARICOSE VEINS, DEFORMITIES, RHEUMATISM AND CONSTIPATION come within my scope.

Put Your Case Up to Me. Don't Let Money Matters Keep You Away. I will make a searching examination, absolutely free of charge. Also microscopic and chemical analysis of secretions. It is easy to get the benefit of my services, as you can blame no one but yourself if you stay away on account of money matters.

There is nothing in my announcements that a visit to my office will not verify, and you are welcome, whether you take treatment or not. Write if unable to call. Hours: 9 to 12, 2 to 5, Sundays 9 to 12. L. F. McHARRY, M. D., 916 N. South Spring Street, Los Angeles, Cal.
